HAMPSHIRE — A.D. 1086:

BEING A COMPANION TO THE HAMPSHIRE PORTION OF THE DOMESDAY BOOK.

BY HENRY MOODY.

INTRODUCTION.

THAT portion of the DOMESDAY BOOK of WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR which pertains to HAMPSHIRE, does not differ essentially with the portions pertaining to the other counties; but it has this advantage over several of them,—the notices of the places mentioned are fuller and more explicit, and they are placed in the hundreds to which they belonged, thus facilitating their identification after the lapse of nearly eight centuries, and in spite of the variations in the spellings which have taken place during that period.

Hampshire, which is the fourth county in the first volume, occupies thirty-four pages in the original MS. The order of the matter relating to it is as follows:—First, a list of all the persons holding lands within the county, commencing with the King, who is followed by the Bishop of Winchester, then by other bishops, religious houses, the nobles, and other great men who held of the king in capite; and, lastly, the inferior thanes and officers known in the survey as the king's servants. Immediately after the list of tenants, the manors held by the king in demesne are described, and then those of every tenant according to the order observed in the list. The notice of each manor, or holding, contains a statement of the number of hides, plough-lands, ox-gangs, &c., it contained—what its value was in the time of Edward the Confessor, at the time of its being granted by the Conqueror to the then holder, and at the time of the survey; how much arable land, meadow, pasture and wood there was; how many men occupied it, and of what condition they were—whether freemen, villeins, borderers, or serfs; together with the number and value of the mills, fisheries, salterns, &c., and an account of the rents, tributes, services, tolls, and customs, and what homage was due, and what works were to be done for the lord of each manor.

As an abstract of the population at the time of the survey, the Domesday Book is insufficient, as it gives no more than the number of persons who held or occupied land, or rendered services thereon; and for all England the tenants in capite, including ecclesiastical corporations, amounted scarcely to 1400; the under-tenants were somewhat less than 8000, and the total population mentioned does not exceed 282,242 persons. There is no mention of parishes; and it is probable that these now well-known divisions of counties are of later formation than the reign of the Conqueror; and even the churches mentioned are only done so incidentally as belonging to particular manors.

The county was at the time of the survey divided nominally into fifty hundreds. We say so, because we imagine that Edefele, Efedele, and Hefedele in one instance, and Broctone and Bristone in another, are but mere variations in the spelling. But no matter whether there were fifty or forty-seven hundreds; some of them retain their ancient name, and apparently are of the same extent now as they were in the reign of the Conqueror; others have obtained a different name, and others have become merged in the adjoining hundreds, as we shall particularize in the notes which will accompany the translation.

The hundreds were subdivided into about three hundred manors, of which seventy-five were held by the king, and one hundred and three by ecclesiastical persons and establishments; and the remainder were divided principally among the King's Norman followers, Hugh de Port, Ralph de Mortimer, William Malduith, and others, of whom the former obtained not less than fifty manors as his share.

What the population of Hampshire amounted to at the period of the compilation, it is impossible to form any estimate. But as far as respects the Isle of Wight, we find enumerated, as belonging to its several manors, tenants 66, villeins 284, borderers 405, and serfs 215; making a total of 970; and, supposing that the whole or greater portion of these had families, and multiply that number by five, we have only 4850 persons as the population of the island.

As to the actual value of property in the county, we are also at a loss; as we know not the comparative value of money in the eleventh and in the nineteenth century; and we also labour under the disadvantage that, although the value of a manor is generally stated, there were several held by the King which were not assessed, and consequently the value could not be known. With the exception of those manors, we find the rental of the county to have been somewhere about £2640; of which two-fifths were engrossed by the Bishop of Winchester, and other ecclesiastical persons and establishments, as the following will show:—

	Manors.	Value.
Bishop of Winchester	24	£877
Bishop of Winchester, for his monks	80	297
St. Peter's abbey (Hyde)	18	211
St. Mary's abbey, Winchester	6	28
Romsey abbey	5	47
Wherwell abbey	6	51
Christchurch Priory	3	15
Other persons and establishments	11	57
	103	£1083

With respect to the number of churches which, at that period, existed, we have mention of 132; but, in every instance, they are mentioned as belonging to some manor, or possessing land; thus, in the notice of the manor of Odiham, held by the King, it is stated that "two hides of this manor belong to two churches situated in it; and two priests hold two other churches belonging to this manor, with two yardlands annexed." In the notice of the possessions of the Norman Abbey of Lyra, it is stated that "the abbey had six churches in the Isle of Wight, to which belonged two hides, and two yardlands and a half." In another place we have a notice, that Thomas Archbishop of York, held in the manor of Mottisfont one church and six chapels, with all customary dues from the living and the dead: the chapels being in Broughton, Puttleworth, East and West Tytherly, Dean, and in Lockerly.

The number of mills which this county contained, eight hundred years ago, will be a matter of surprise. It appears, from the Domesday Book, that there were in Hampshire not less than 312 of the annual value of £157 15s. 10d. That these mills were small, and possessed very limited powers, is apparent, by a comparison of their immense number, with the paucity of inhabitants, and of the rudeness of the machinery at that early period. The average annual value of each mill is about 10s. 7½d. but that they greatly differed in that respect, is shown by the circumstance, that some are returned at rent as high as from one to two pounds, and others as low as fifteen pence.

The greater portion of the present parishes of the county derive their names from the ancient manors mentioned in the Domesday Book; as, Wymering, Wimeringes; Wickham, Wicheham; and Alverstoke, Alvarestock; but, in several instances, the manors have been divided for parochial purposes, where only one portion retains the manorial appellation; thus Chilcomb is mentioned as a very extensive and valuable manor, containing no less than 68 plough-lands (probably 10,000 acres), besides woods and pasture, nine churches, and four mills; and being of the value of £104, is now known as the manor of Barton and Buddlesgate, and which extends over the parishes of Chilcomb, Ovington, Morstead, Winnall, Compton, St. Faith, Week, Littleton, and Sparsholt. Another instance is Ceptune—Chalton, which comprises the present parishes of Chalton, Clanfield, Catherington, Idsworth, and Blendworth.

There are other cases in which parishes comprise two or more of the ancient manors; thus, Titchfield includes not only the manor of that name, but those of Crofton, Funtley, Hook, Stubington, and Swanwick; Eling, not only the ancient manor called Edlinges, but those of Durley, Langley, Netley, Testwood, Thachbury, and Totton. Some of the parishes of the county—of which there are more than one of the same name—owe their distinctive appellation to the proprietor of the manor at the time of the survey; as Kingsclere, King's Worthy, and King's Sombourn, which were held by the Conqueror in demesne; Bishopstoke and Bishop's Waltham, from the bishop of Winchester; Hurstbourn Priors and Freefolk Priors, from St. Swithin's Priory, now the Cathedral of Winchester; Abbot's Anne and Abbot's Worthy, from the Abbot of the New Monastery, afterwards Hyde; Itchen Abbas, from the Abbey of Romsey; Hartley Mauditt, from Wm. Mauditt; Crux Easton, from Croc—the King's hunstman; and Penton Grafton, from the Abbey of Grafton, or Grieston, in Normandy.

It is probable that the boundaries of Hampshire are the same now as they were in the reign of William the Conqueror; and that on the Wiltshire side, at least, there appears not to have been the least alteration. All the border parishes, in both counties, are mentioned as manors in the county in which each respectively is now situate; thus, in the Domesday Book, there is a manor of Tidworth both in Hampshire and in Wiltshire; and there are two parishes, South Tidworth, in Hampshire, and North Tidworth, in Wiltshire; and, what is more, the Domesday Book manors and the present parishes correspond with each other in the comparative extent and value of each. Then we have, in the Domesday Book, a manor of Cholderton, in Hampshire, and another in Wiltshire, and two manors, called Dean, also in both counties; and, at present, there are two Choldertons, East Cholderton, a tything of the parish of Amport, in Hampshire, and the parish of West Cholderton, in Wiltshire; and two parishes of Dean, namely, East Dean, in Hampshire and West Dean, in Wiltshire. The manor of Wellow, another border parish, is mentioned as being in Hampshire; but the notice of it states that one yardland and a half of the manor of Welleu (Wellow), was separated from it and from the county by Waleran the King's huntsman, and is reckoned as belonging to Wiltshire. The parish of Wellow is situated in both counties; but the church, and, by far the greater portion, called East Wellow, is in Hampshire; and the lesser portion, called West Wellow, in Wiltshire. Again the parish of Bramshaw is also situated in both counties; and in the Domesday the manor of Bramshaw is mentioned as being situated in Wiltshire, but its tythings of Brook and Fritham, which are in Hampshire, are returned as manors belonging to this county.

Of the present towns and boroughs of Hampshire, we have but a slight mention. All that is said of the city of Winchester is, that fourteen burgesses of it paid to the Abbess of Romsey 25s. annually, and that the Abbey of Wherwell possessed in the city thirty-one messuages and a mill, which paid 48s.; but the brevity of this notice may be accounted for, as a description and survey of the city of Winchester formed the matter of a similar work. Portsmouth is not mentioned at all, as the town probably was not then in existence, neither is there any mention of Gosport, Petersfield, or Lymington; Alton, Andover, Odiham, Waltham, and Whitechurch, merely as manors; and Christchurch (Thuinam) and Romsey, as villages which belonged to the monastic establishments in those places. It appears that Basingstoke possessed a market worth 30s. annually, and that Titchfield had a market and toll place of the value of 40s. There is no other market mentioned, except that of Neteham, now an extra-parochial place near Alton, which paid £8. Of Southampton, it is said, that in the borough of Hantune, "the King has seventy-nine in demesne, who pay a land-tax of seven pounds, and also paid the same in the time of King Edward, of whom twenty-seven paid 8d. each, two of them 12d. each, and the remaining fifty 6d. each; and what they hold in the borough was made free of all taxes by the King." The survey goes on to state, that after King William came to England, sixty-five Frenchmen and thirty-one Englishmen were provided with houses in Hantune, and these altogether paid £4 0s. 6d. for all accustomed dues; and that the Abbey of Wherwell had a fishery and a small piece of ground, which had formerly paid one hundred pence, and then ten shillings.

We cannot conclude our preliminary notice without stating, that we are of opinion that the Survey of Hampshire was not completed, and we cannot otherwise account for the omission of any mention of the episcopal manors of Merdon, Woodhay, Cheriton, Hambledon, and Wolvesey. The manor of Merdon is co-extensive with the parish of Hursley, which has an area of 10,493 acres; Woodhay probably extended over the whole of the parishes of East Woodhay and Ashmansworth, which have an area of 6774 acres; Cheriton probably included the whole of the parishes of Cheriton, Tichbourn, and Beauworth, which have an area of 7300 acres; Hambledon probably was somewhat less in extent than the present parish, which has an area of 9046 acres; and Wolvesey certainly included Miland, and the whole of the Soke of Winchester. There are other omissions, as we suppose, but as they were places of less extent and value, it is possible that they were included in the notices of other manors mentioned in the Survey.

We are strengthened in our opinion that the work was not completed, from a careful examination of the entries in the original record. In one portion, a folio has been inserted for the purpose of supplying omissions, and in other places fresh insertions have been entered in spaces accidentally left; and, in some cases, recourse has been had to the margin; it is quite evident in some instances that the scribe has omitted to record the hundred, and this alone is sufficient to mislead the casual reader, who would regard the subsequent entries as pertaining to the hundred last-named.

In support of our assertion we will, by way of illustration, refer our readers to one instance. Page VII. of the Facsimile. It will be seen that the hundred of Tichfield (Ticefelle) is the one last-named in this page. The fifth line after this exhibits a blank, and it is self-evident that this blank could have been left for no other purpose than that of entering the words, "In NETEHAM HUND," being the locality of the manor of Bentley, to which the text refers.

If, when we consider the difficulties which must have attended the execution of this Survey, and that the book itself presents but an abstract; and, that in all probability many of the returns more than once had to be amended by the jurors, owing to omissions, mistakes, and other infirmitates; and then, finally, assorted and condensed by clerks unacquainted with the localities, and thus likely at every step to make mistakes in their readings, and transcriptions of proper names, we are not surprised at the occurrence of a few omissions and mistakes, such as we have mentioned above.

GLOSSARY.

ALODIUM (Allodium).—The tenure of an hereditary and perpetual estate, free from every suit, service, or imposition, except the land-tax.

AULA (a Court Baron).—Also the lord's manor or mansion.

BEREWICE. A village or hamlet appertaining to a town or manor.

BORDARIUS (a Borderer).—Derived from borde, a cottage with land attached, the holder of which was bound to supply the lord's table, do his domestic work, or any other service which might be required.

BOVATA (an Ox-gang).—As much land as an ox-team could plough in the course of a year, and supposed to be the eighth of a carucata.

CARUCA. A plough, or team.

CARUCATA (a Ploughland).—As much arable land, with meadow pasture, and farm buildings, as one plough with the beasts belonging to it could till within the year. It varied in quantity from 60 to 100 acres.

CIRSET (Church-shot).—Money paid as first-fruits to the church.

COLIBERTUS (a Freeman, described by Sir Edward Coke as a tenant in fee socage, by free rent; and by Cowell, as a middle sort of tenant, between servile and free.

GABLUM (Reserved rent).

GELDUM (Composition); but in the Domesday the meaning is confined to the Danegeld tax.

HAGA.—A house in a city or borough.

HIDA (a Hide).—The quantity of a hide of land was never expressly determined, but it is generally estimated to be 100 Norman acres, which would represent 120 acres English measure; but in reality, a hide, a yardland, a knight's fee, &c., contained no certain number of acres.

PARAGIUM (Parcenary), or joint tenantry.

PASNAGIUM (Pannage), feed for hogs.

RACHENISTERS (Freemen) who, as it is supposed, had purchased their freedom.

RADMANNI, The same.

SERVUS (a Serf).—The servi of the Domesday were slaves, but their condition rather resembled that of the Serfs of Russia than the mere chattels of America.

SOCA vel SOK (A Liberty).—Thus the bishop's liberty in Winchester, which was formerly exempt from civic jurisdiction, is called the Soke.

TAINI vel THAINI (Thanes).—These were the Saxon nobility, and held their lands immediately of the king.

THELONEUM (a Toll, or Tribute); and, sometimes, an exception from it.

VILLA. A collection of houses; and indifferently applied to town, village, or hamlet.

VILLANUS, a Villein.—A man of servile condition, but superior alike to the borderers and serfs. In process of time they gained considerably on their lords, and strengthened the tenure of their estates to that degree; and in many places obtained an interest in their estates full as good, and in others better, than their lords; and they became in point of fact what are now known by the term, "copyholders."

ARRANGEMENT.

Our extension of the Latin text follows the order observed in the original MS., and is accompanied by marginal references to denote the page and column of the Facsimile; but in our English translation we have described the places mentioned in the Survey under the hundreds to which they severally belong; and we have done so for the purpose of the more easy identification of the names of places, the spelling of which have become altered, and of rendering our notes and explanations more intelligible. In cases in which it is apparent that there has been an omission of the name of the hundred, we have inserted the place in the hundred as now situated; but where it is probable that the places belonged, at the time of the Survey, to the hundreds in which they are mentioned, we have allowed them to remain; and figures are placed to denote the precise page in which the entry may be found in our Latin text.

With respect to our extension and translation, we will observe, in justice to ourselves, that upon one point, at least, the different translators and extenders of the text of the DOMESDAY BOOK are sure to vary, and it is a point upon which it is vain to expect uniformity. It is with regard to the words Caruca and Carucata (Plough and Plough-land). In the original record we almost invariably find only the first syllable written, viz. Car. Upon what principle the word should be extended, and whether it refers at all times to the land itself, and occasionally to the implement, can never be satisfactorily settled. Many translators appear to have employed either term indifferently, just as it seemed agreeable to them. We have not, however, thought it expedient to use either word at random, as others have done, but have kept to the word carucata, except in those instances where it is evident that the implement itself is meant, and this we submit to the judgment of our readers to vary.

TRANSLATION OF THE LATIN TEXT,

WITH THE MANORS RANGED UNDER THE HUNDREDS IN WHICH THEY WERE SITUATED.

HAMPSHIRE.

ANDOVERE HUNDRED.

Which corresponds with the present Andover Hundred.

Anna—page 10.

ST. PETER'S ABBEY, WINCHESTER, holds Anna [Abbot's] and always held it. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 15 hides, but now at 8 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 7 held by 11 villeins and 12 borderers. Here are also 4 servants, and 3 mills worth 37s. 6d. Its value in the time of King Edward was, and is now, £14, but when it came into possession, £12.

The parish of Abbot's Anna, which has an area of 3351 acres, includes the tithing of Little Anna in Wherwell hundred. The manor was returned in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas of the value of £15 8s. 8d., and continued in possession of St. Peter's, or Hyde Abbey, till the Reformation.

THE KING holds Andover in demesne and King Edward held it. The number of hides is not mentioned. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, and 62 villeins, 36 borderers, 3 freemen and 6 servants with 21 ploughlands; also 6 mills worth 72s. 6d., 18 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 100 hogs.

The parish of Andover has an area of 7670 acres.

Anne—pages 5, 15, 17, and 21.

THE KING holds Anne in demesne, and Ulveve held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 10 hides, but now at 2½ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 3 villeins and 5 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 3 servants, a mill worth 7s. 6d., 2 acres of meadow, and a copse. Its value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards, and is now, worth £9.

HUGH DE PORT holds Anne, and Edric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 10 hides, but now at 6 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; 7 villeins and 12 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 3 servants, and a mill worth 20s. Half a hide is in Wallop. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £4, and is now worth £6.

Belonging to this manor Ralph de Mortimer holds 5 hides. A brother of Edric held them on the condition that he should enjoy them so long as he behaved well to Edric; and that he should not alienate them or give them to any one except Edric, from whom they were held; and this is attested by the jury of the hundred.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Anne, and Ingelran holds it under him; and it was held by Edric in the time of King Edward. It was then assessed as now at 5 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, 7 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; 3 servants, a mill worth 25s., 2 acres of meadow, and woods without pannage. Its value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards 40s., and is now worth £4.

GOZELINE DE CORNELIES holds Anne of the King, and Saxi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 10 hides, but now at 4½ hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 8 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 4 servants, 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. The Abbey of Cornelies holds the church of the manor, with 1 yardland occupied by a villain. The whole manor in the time of King Edward was of the value of £13; afterwards, and now, £10.

Anna, at the period of the Heptarchy, was the name of an extensive tract of country, situated in the northwest of Hampshire, a designation derived, according to tradition, from Anna, King of the East Angles, who having been driven from his dominions, resided during his exile in this neighbourhood. At the time of the compilation of the Domesday Book, there were, in addition to Andover, two manors written Anna, and four written Anne. The former are easily recognised in being Abbot's Anna and Little Anna, from their respectively forming portions of the possessions of St. Peter Abbey, Winchester, and Wherwell Abbey. The recognition of the latter is not so easy, but there can be no reasonable doubt that the manor held by Hugh de Port is part of the present parish of Amport, which in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas and other ancient documents is written Anne de Port; and it is one of the very few manors of which the present proprietor can say that it was held by his ancestor in the reign of William the Conqueror, but such is the case here, the Marquis of Winchester being a lineal descendant from

Hugh de Port. The manor held by Ralph de Mortimer was formerly known as Anne Savage, and now forms part of the manor of Saxton. The manor held by Gozeline de Cornelies we suppose to be the parish of Thruxton, from the fact that the family of the Cornelies for centuries had held extensive property in this neighbourhood; and that John Cornelies, in the reign of Edward, obtained for Thruxton, probably the Saxon name of the place, the right of a hundred court fair. The manor held by the King we venture to set down for the parish of Monkton. It is certain that within a century from the Norman Conquest, the Abbey of Bec, in Normandy, became possessed of a manor called Anne, near Andover. In the Taxation of Pope Nicholas and the Inquisition of the 14th of Edward III., there is a mention of the parish of Anne-de-Becco. Upon the suppression of the Abbat Priory, the manor and advowson of Anne de Becco were conveyed to the Provost and Fellows of Kent's College, and were by the Statute of King Henry VI. from which time the name of Anne de Becco appears in the Bishops' Registers, whilst its place is supplied by that of Monkton. The parish of Monkton has an area of 1141 acres; Thruxton, 1866; and Amport, which includes several Domesday manors, 3933 acres.

Cerewartone—pages 15, 19, 20, and 22.

HUGH DE PORT holds 3 hides in Cholderton, and Ralph holds them under him, and Edric held them allodially of King Edward. They were as now assessed at 3 hides. Here is 1 ploughland which is in demesne, with 1 villein and 1 borderer. Its value in the time of King Edward was 30s., afterwards was and is worth 20s.

GILBERT DE BRUTEVILLE holds 4 hides, 3 yardlands in Cholderton, of the King; and Ralph holds them under him; and four freemen held them, as 4 manors, allodially, of King Edward. They were then, and now, assessed at 4 hides, 3 yardlands. Here are 3 ploughlands; 1 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 2 borderers, with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants, and 3 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was 67s. 6d.; afterwards, 40s.; and now, worth 60s.

WILLIAM THE SON OF BADERON holds Cholderton; and three freemen held it, allodially, of King Edward. It was, then, assessed at 3 hides, 2½ yardlands; and now at 1 hide, 2½ yardlands. Here are; 1 ploughland in demesne, 4 borderers, 2 servants, and 5½ acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was £4 10s., and afterwards and now, 65s.

ROBERT THE SON OF MURDAC holds Cholderton, of the King; and two freemen held it as 2 manors, allodially, of King Edward. It was, then, assessed at 3 hides, 1 yardland, and 1½ acres; and now, at 2 hides and the fourth part of a yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands; half a ploughland is in demesne; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers with half a ploughland; also 2 servants; and 1½ acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was 60s., afterwards 30s., and now 40s.

Cholderton is now a tithing of the parish of Amport, but formerly it was more extensive than at present; so as probably to include the adjoining parish of Grately, which is not mentioned in Domesday.

HUGH DE PORT holds Kimpton, and Goisfrid holds it under him, and Wenesi held it, allodially, of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 2 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands; 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 8 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 1 servant, and woods which are unproductive. Its value in the time of King Edward was 60s.; afterwards 40s., and now £4.

The parish of Kimpton, which includes the Domesday manors of Littleton and Sholdesden, comprises an area of 1910 acres.

THE KING holds Clabford [Upper], which was a fief of Earl Roger; and Saxi held it, of King Edward. It was, then, assessed at 11 hides; and now at 1½ hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 16 villeins and 21 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also 8 servants; 3 mills, worth 57s. 6d.; 15 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs; and 7 houses in Winchester worth a rent of 10s. Its value in the time of King Edward was £20; afterwards and now, £15 10s.; but it pays £20.

Belonging to this manor the Abbey of Lira holds 3 yardlands and the tithes of the village; and Adelina the minstrel holds 1 yardland, which was given her by Earl Roger.

The parish of Upper Clabford comprises an area of 2150 acres. Saxi's Farm in this parish either derived its name from the Saxon name, Saxi, its proprietor more than eight centuries ago, or he derived his name from it.

HUGH DE PORT holds Clanville; and Herbert holds it under him, and Azor held it, allodially, of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 1½ hides. Here is 1 ploughland which is in demesne, with 4 borderers. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 30s., and is now 20s.

SARIZ holds Enham [Knight's] of the King, and Alwin held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1½ hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, 2 villeins and 7 borderers with half a ploughland; also half a mill worth 5s., 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value was 60s., and now 30s.

ALSI BEROHENISTRE holds Enham [Knight's] of the King, and Ulveva held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1½ hides. In demesne there is 1 ploughland, and 2 villeins and 9 borderers with 1 ploughland; also half a mill which pays 5s., 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value was 60s., and now 30s.

The monks of the bishopric of Winchester have on this manor a pledge, or mortgage, of £12, left them by some person deceased.

THE KING holds Quarley, and it was held by Earl Harold. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 11 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 12 servants, and woods without pannage. Its value in the time of King Edward was £12, afterwards and now, £8.

WILLIAM DE MALDUITH holds 5 hides of land, which were held by Ulveva as a manor, allodially of King Edward, called Fyfield. They were then assessed at 5 hides, now at 3 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 10 villeins and 5 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 2 servants, and 2 acres of meadow. In the time of King Edward its value was, as now, 100s., and when it came in possession, 50s.

The parish of Fifield has an area of 2210 acres.

WALERAN, the Huntsman, holds Foxcott, Ralph holds it under him, and two freemen held it as 2 manors allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, 10 villeins and 14 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 3 servants. In the time of King Edward it was of the value of 50s., afterwards 40s., and now 70s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Littleton, and Azor held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 5 yardlands. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 6 borderers with 3 ploughlands; the woods are unproductive. Its value in the time of King Edward was 10s., afterwards and is now £4.

Littleton is a manor in the parish of Kimpton, and it formed part of the possession of the Abbey of St. Peter, at Gloucester.

Penitone — pages 11 and 13.

THE ABBEY OF GRAFTON holds Penton [Grafton] of the King, and Queen Eddid held it as a manor. It was then assessed at 3 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, 5 villeins and 27 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 1 church and 5 servants. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £10, and now £8.

TERALD holds Penton [Mewsey] of Earl Roger, and Osmund held it allodially of King Edward, as a manor. It was then assessed at 8 hides, and now at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 11 villeins and 7 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also a church, 3 servants, 5 acres of meadow, and woods without pannage. Its value in the time of King Edward was £7, afterwards, and now, is 60s.

The parish of Penton Grafton, alias Weyhill, comprises an area of 1920 acres, and that of Penton Mewsey of 920 acres. The former derived its adjunct from the Abbey of Grafton, in Normandy; and the latter from the family de Meysey, who held the manor in the 13th century.

WALERAN the huntsman holds 1 yardland in Sarson, and Ralph holds it under him; and Godric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here are 3 ploughlands. It was and is of the value of 5s.

Here are 4 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, 3 villeins and 9 servants with 1 ploughland; also a church, 4 acres of meadow, and a copse. Its value in the time of King Edward was and now is £10, and when it came in possession, 100s.

CROCH, the Huntsman, holds 2 hides of the King in Tidworth [South], and Alwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 2 hides. Here is 1 ploughland, which is in demesne, with 1 borderer and 1 servant. Its value in the time of King Edward was 40s., afterwards 20s., and now 30s.

The parish of South Tidworth comprises an area of 2175 acres. North Tidworth, which is in Wiltshire, is mentioned in the portion of the Domesday Book which relates to that county.

BASINGSTOCHES HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Basingstoke Hundred.

HUGH DE PORT holds Basing, and Altei held it of King Edward, and might live where he pleased. It was then assessed at 11 hides, but now at 6½ hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 20 villeins and 41 borderers with 11 ploughlands; also 7 servants, 3 mills worth 50s., 40 acres of meadow, and woods for 25 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward was £12, afterwards £8, and now £16.

The parish of Basing, otherwise Old Basing, has an area of 5104 acres.

Basingstoches — pages 5 and 10.

THE KING holds Basingtoke in demesne, and it always was a royal manor, and never paid tax, or was it ever distributed into hides. Here are 20 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 20 villeins and 8 borderers with 12 ploughlands; also 6 servants, 3 mills worth 30s, and 12 freemen with 4 ploughlands; a market worth 30s., 20 acres of meadow; and in Winchester 4 inhabitants of the suburbs pay 12s. 11d. The land belonging to one of these is now held by Goisfrid the chamberlain, but neither the Sheriff nor the Hundred have seen the King's grant. Here is a wood for 20 hogs.

THE CHURCH OF ST. MICHAEL OF THE MOUNT (Normandy,) holds a church of the King, with 1 hide, and the tithe of the manor of Basingstoches. Here is a priest, 2 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland, a mill worth 20s., and 2 acres of meadow. The value is £4 5s. Walter, the bishop, held it of King Edward, but it did not belong to his bishopric.

The advowson of the church passed subsequently to Selbourn Priory, and on its dissolution to Magdalen College, Oxford.

The parish of Basingstoke has an area of 4036 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Bramley, and Aluric held it of King Edward and might remove where he pleased. It was assessed at 5 hides, but now at 2½ hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, 14 villeins and 14 borderers with 11 ploughlands; also a church, 8 servants, 2 mills worth 20s., 2 acres of meadow, woods for 80 hogs, and 3 burgesses who pay 22d. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 2 borderers have the other; a church, and 11 servants. Its value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards and now £4. Ode de Winchester claims this hide, and says he had it in mortgage for £10, paid to Alsi, with the approbation of King William, and that he is therefore deprived of it unjustly; but Goisfrid holds it of the King for services done to his daughter Matilda.

Hatch Warren, now a farm in the parish of Farleigh Wallop was formerly a parish, as is shown by the Taxation of Pope Nicholas, and the Inquisition 14 of Edward III. In the Taxation the church is returned of the annual value of £4 6s. 8d.

Lichepet — page 10.

HUGH DE PORT holds Lichfield of the Abbey of St. Peter's, Winchester. In the time of King Edward it was, as now, assessed at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, which are in demesne, with 8 borderers, 5 servants, and 5 acres of meadow. Its value was, and is, 60s.

Mapledrewelle — page 16.

HUBERT DE PORT holds Mapledrewell of the King, and Anschil held it of King Edward and was permitted to remove where he pleased. It was then assessed at 5½ hides, and now at 2½ hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 12 villeins and 8 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 6 servants, and 2 mills worth 32s. 6d. Its value in the time of King Edward, afterwards, and now £10, but it pays £13.

The parish of Mapledrewell has an area of 730 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Nately, and Anschitil holds it under him, and Edwin held it of King Edward, and was at liberty to live where he pleased. It was then as now assessed at 2½ hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne, 5 villeins and 4 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 11 servants, a mill worth 10s., and 5 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was 50s., afterwards 30s., and now 60s.

There are two parishes of this name—Nately Scures, with an area of 1120 acres; and Upper Nately, with an area of 980 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Sherborne [St. John] of the King. Ulveva held it of King Edward, and was at liberty to live any where. It was then assessed at 10 hides, but now at 7 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, 16 villeins and 19 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a church, with half a hide which pays 20s., 5 servants, 3 mills let at 27s. 6d., and 20 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £10, and now £15.

The parish of Sherborne St. John has an area of 3885 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Tuneworth, and Alured held it of Queen Eddid, but could not remove elsewhere. It was then assessed at 3 hides, and now at 2 hides. Its value in the time of King Edward was £3, afterwards 50s., and now £1.

The parish of Tuneworth has an area of 1100 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Winslade, and Walter holds it under him. In the time of King Edward it was as now, assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, 5 villeins and 8 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 4 servants, and it was always of the value of 40s.

The parish of Winslade, with Kempshott, has an area of 1235 acres.

BERMESPLET HUNDRED.

Forming a portion of the present Bermondsdit Hundred.

Candovere — pages 13, 14, 17, 18, and 22.

THE CHURCHMEN OF WINCHESTER hold Candover [Preston] of the Earl Roger, and Aluric held it of Earl Harold. It was then as now assessed at 5½ hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, 9 villeins and 1 borderer have 2½ ploughlands; 3 servants, 5 acres of meadow, and a house in Winchester, which pays 17d. Its value in the time of King Edward was, £10, afterwards 60s., and now 100s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Candover [Preston], and Anschitil holds it under him, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide and 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne; 4 servants and 2 villeins with half a ploughland. The value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 30s., and is now the same.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Candover [Preston], and Oidelard holds it under him, and it was held by Cheping allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but now at 4½ hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 1 villein, 2 borderers, 3 servants, and 5 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was £8, afterwards 100s., and now £4.

WILLIAM MALDUTH holds Candover [Preston], and 2 freemen held it as 2 manors of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but now at 2½ hides, and is one manor. Here are 6 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne, 7 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughs; 14 servants, 4 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. When it came in possession, its value was 60s.

CHEPING holds Candover [Preston] of the King, and Sberne held it of Queen Eddid. It was then assessed at 2½ hides, but now at 2 hides. Here are ; 1 ploughland in demesne, and 3 villeins with 3 oxen in a team; and 1 servant. Ernulf holds a yardland, which belongs to the above; and here he has half a ploughland. Its value in the time of King Edward was £4, afterwards 60s., and now 50s. Half a hide was taken from this manor, and added to Odiham, according to the testimony of the hundred.

EDWIN the priest holds 1 yardland, and held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a ploughland; and yet 1 plough is employed on the demesne. Its value is 5s.

In the Hampshire portion of the Domesday Book, the name of Candovere occurs no less than seven times; twice in the Manesberg Hundred, and five times in the Bermesplet Hundred. There are three adjoining parishes of the same name, Brown Candover and Chilton Candover in the Manesberg Hundred; and Preston Candover in the Bermondsdit Hundred; and we have, therefore, set down all the above notices as referring to Preston Candover, which has an area of 3413 acres.

Dummere — pages 14 and 22.

HUGH DE PORT holds Dummer, and one of his dependants holds it under him, and Aluric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 8 villeins and 9 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, and 3 servants. The value in the time of King Edward was, and is now, 100s., and when it came in possession 40s.

ODE OF WINCHESTER holds Dummer; and Hengar holds it of him, and Auti held it of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 3 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a church, 3 houses in Winchester, which pay 2s., and 1 acre of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward was, and is now, 100s., and when it came in possession, 60s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Ellisfield of the Bishop of Bayeaux, and Auti held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 8 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands; 1 in demesne, and 8 villeins and 4 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a church, 4 servants, 5 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value in the time of King Edward was £10, afterwards 60s., and now worth 100s.

SIRIC THE CHAMBERLAIN holds Farleigh [Wallop] of the King, and it was held by Ulveva of King Edward. It was then assessed at 4 hides, but now at 3 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands; 1 in demesne, and 15 villeins and 7 borderers with 6 ploughlands; also 3 servants, 16 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value in the time of King Edward was £8, afterwards 60s., and now worth £6.

The parish of Farleigh Wallop, which derives its adjunct from the family of Wallop, who have been lords of the manor for centuries, and which includes the Domesday manor of Hatch, comprises an area of 1975 acres.

Henert — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Herriard, and Walter holds it of him, and Erlenc held it allodially of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 5 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 2 borderers have 4 ploughlands; also 1 servant and a copse for fences. The value in the time of King Edward was £4, afterwards £8, and now 100s.

HENRY THE TREASURER holds Nutley, and four freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5½ hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 7 borderers with 1½ ploughlands; also 8 servants. The value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards, 60s., and now £4 10s. Goisfrid the marshal holds half a hide, which, as the hundred affirm, belongs to the above land. The same Henry has 1 yardland in the same hundred, but not belonging to this manor, which pays 4s.

EDNOD AND EDWI held Sudberie allodially of King Edward, and died after him, but Cola, a relation of theirs, redeemed this land of Earl William; Walter now holds it in pledge, from the son of Cole de Basinge. It was then as now assessed at 2½ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands; with 1 villein and 1 borderer. The value in the time of King Edward was 40s., afterwards 10s., and now 20s.

Query—May this be Southrop, a tything of the parish of Herriard?

MILO, THE PORTER, holds in Bermesplet Hundred 2½ yardlands of the King, and 2 freemen held them as 2 manors of King Edward. Here is half a ploughland which is in demesne, with 2 villeins. Its value was, and is 5s.

BERTUN HUNDRED,

Bertune — pages 4, 16, and 20.

THE KING holds Barton [Stacey], which was a royal manor of King Edward, and was under the obligation of providing entertainment for the King for half a day; and Worthy is a village, forming part of this manor. It never distributed into hides, 6 hides excepted, which were, and are now, held by freemen. The number of hides, therefore, is not known. Here are 25 ploughlands, 5 in demesne; and 28 villeins and 47 borderers with 18 ploughlands; also 8 servants, 3 mills worth 42s. 6d., 6 freemen, 37 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 80 hogs, and herbage worth 46s. Its value in the time of King Edward was £38 8s. 4d., afterwards the same sum, and now £33, but pays £52 6s. 1d.

THE CHURCH OF ST. VICTOR holds Barton of Ralph de Mortimer, and Cheping held it in parcenary of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide; and now at 1 yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands; also 9 oxen, 1 villein, 5 borderers, 6 acres of meadow, and 1 servant. Its value in the time of King Edward was 60s., afterwards, and is now, 30s.

WALTER, the son of Roger de Pistes, holds half a hide in Barton, and Hugh de Port holds it under him, and Elzi the Sheriff held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is a church, and its value is 15s.

The parish of Barton Stacey, which includes the Domesday manors of Barton, Newton, Bransbury, and Drayton, comprises an area of 4943 acres. It obtained the name of Stacey from the de Sacy family, who held the manor in the 13th century, one of whom obtained for it in the 24th of Henry III. the grant of a market and fair. The Worthy here mentioned is the tything of King's Worthy in the parish of that name.

RICHERIUS THE CLERK holds Bransbury, and claims under the bishop. Abbot Als held it of Archbishop Stigand, and of the monks of Winchester, and in the time of King Edward it was for their support. It was then as now, assessed at 4 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 7 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a mill worth 15s. Its value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards £4, and now £6.

HUMPHRY the Chamberlain holds 1 hide in Colemere. Aluric held it of Bundi and was not allowed to remove. It was then assessed at 1 hide, and now at half a hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, 2 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 30s., and now the same sum; but pays 40s.

WILLIAM, THE SON OF MANNE, holds 1 hide in Newton [Stacey]; which Aluric held of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now is not assessed. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, which was and is of the value of 20s. William came into possession in right of his wife.

Newton Stacey is a tything of the parish of Barton Stacey, and was also held by the de Sacy family.

ODE OF WINCHESTER holds Norton, and Fulchi held it of King Edward, and was allowed to remove. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 2 hides 1 yardland. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 3 villeins and 5 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a church, 6 servants, a mill worth 16s., 10 acres of meadow, herbage worth 12d., and 5 houses in Winchester pay 10s. Its value in the time of King Edward was £6, afterwards £3, and now £6 10s.

Ordei — pages 16 and 18.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Worthy [Headbourn], and Cheping held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 5 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 1 villein and 27 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, 24 servants, 3 mills worth 60s., 5 acres of meadow, herbage producing 40s., and 8 houses in Winchester pay 65s. 4d. The value in the time of King Edward was £25, afterwards £10, and now £15. This manor in the time of King Edward was bought out of the church, on condition that the Abbey of St. Peter should hold it of the bishopric after the death of the third possessor; and Ralph, who now holds it, is the third possessor.

The same Ralph holds Worthy [Martyr's], and Ezi held it in the time of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, 1 yardland; but now is not assessed. Here is 1 ploughland. It was formerly, a manor; but is now added to another. Its value in the time of King Edward was and is 40s.

BERNARD DE PANCEVOLT holds Worthy, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, with 3 servants, 2 acres of meadow, and 1 messuage in Winchester which pays nothing. The value in the time of King Edward was £12, and afterwards and now, £6.

The first of these notices probably relate to the parish of Hydebourn Worthy, formerly known as Worthy Mortimer, and the adjoining one of St. Bartholomew Hyde, in which, within a century afterwards, Hyde Abbey was erected. The second, in which Mortimer had a more permanent interest, to Martyr's Worthy, a great portion of which continued in his family for several centuries, and from them derived the name of Worthy Comitis, they having become Earls of March; and we also regard the present prefix Martyrs, but as a corruption and shortening of the word Mortimer.

Sudtune — pages 16 and 22.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds Sutton [Scotney], and Tovi held it of Earl Godwin. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but now at 2 hides, 3½ yardlands. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 4 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, 8 servants, a mill worth 6s. 3d., and 10 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was £6, afterwards £4, and now 100s.

ODE OF WINCHESTER holds Sutton, of the King, and Alward held it of Earl Godwin. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 2 hides, 3 yardlands. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 4 borderers have 2 ploughlands; also a church, 8 servants, a mill worth 6s. 3d., and 10 acres of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward was £6, afterwards £4, and now 100s.

The only difference in the above entries is the names of the parties. Sutton Scotney, now a portion of Wonston, was formerly a parish. It derives its prefix from the family of Escotney who held the manor in the 13th century.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Wonston for his monks, and it always belonged to the Monastery. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 7 hides. Here are 7 ploughlands; 2 in demesne; and 10 villeins and 6 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a church, 10 servants, and a mill worth 7s. 6d. In the time of King Edward and afterwards its value was £8 and now £10.

The parish of Wonston, which includes the Domesday manors of Wonston, Sutton, Norton, and Cranbourn, comprises an area of 4160 acres.

BITELESIEFE HUNDRED.

Cilbodentune — pages 8 and 18.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds for his monks Chilbolton and it always belonged to the monastery. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 5 hides. Here are 7 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 11 villeins and 11 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also a church, 4 servants, a mill worth 15s., and 30 acres of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £12, and now £15.

Of the land of this manor, the bishop has only 5 hides, 3 yardlands, and here are 7 ploughlands, and Richard Sturmild holds the remaining hides. A certain steward held them, and could not remove; of these hides he had 2 as a villen.

RICHARD STURMILD holds Chilbolton, and Ordwold held it of the Bishop, and it always belonged to his Monastery, and in the time of King Edward, was not allowed to serve elsewhere. It was then assessed at 3 hides, 3 yardlands, and now at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, 1 villen, 11 borderers, and a mill worth 7s. 6d. The value in the time of King Edward was and is now, £4, and when it came in possession, 40s.

The parish of Chilbolton comprises an area of 3100 acres, and the manor was given to Winchester Cathedral by King Athelstan.

Crawlie — page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Crawley in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 6½ hides. Here are 14 ploughlands, 5 in demesne; and 6 villeins and 25 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also 20 servants, 26 acres of meadow, a church, and woods for 15 hogs. Of the land of this manor, Hugh holds 3 hides, and Alwinus Still held them in parcenary, of the Bishop, but could not remove. Here 1 ploughland is in demesne, and 2 villeins and 5 borderers have 1 ploughland; also 9 servants, and a wood which pays 6d. The value in the time of King Edward of the whole manor was £35, afterwards £28. The value of the Bishop's demesne is £35, and what Hugh holds £7.

The parish of Crawley, with its chapelry of Hunton, comprises an area of 4589 acres. The portion held by Hugh is probably Hunton.

Notesseling — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Nursling for his Monks, and it always belonged to the Monastery. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 5 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 21 villeins and 8 borderers with 10 ploughlands; also a church, 1 servant, a mill worth 22s. 8d., 140 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 5 hogs. The value in the time of King Edward was £8, afterwards 100s., and now £9, but pays £10.

The parish of Nursling comprises an area of 2124 acres. The manor was given to the Cathedral of Winchester, for the support of the fabric, by Bishop Tumbert about the year 879.

Otreburne — page 16.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Otterbourne, and Cheping held it of the Bishop of Winchester, but could not withdraw from the service of the church. It was then as now assessed at 4 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 10 villeins and 8 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, 6 servants, 50 acres of meadow, a fishery paying 2s., and a pasture producing 10s. The value in the time of King Edward was £8, afterwards and now 100s.

The parish of Otterbourne, which includes the Domesday manor of Boyatt, in Mansbridge Hundred, comprises an area of 1508 acres.

BOSEBERG HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Bosmere Hundred.

Brochematune — pages 9 and 14.

THE MONKS OF THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER hold and always held Brockhampton. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 6 hides, but now at 4 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 14 villeins with 4 ploughlands; also a mill worth 15s., 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 20 hogs. The value was and is 100s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Brockhampton, and Herbert the chamberlain holds it under him. Sired held it of Earl Harold, and was not allowed to remove. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here is 1 ploughland which is in demesne, with 1 villen and 4 borderers, who hold half a ploughland. The value is 20s.

Brockhampton is a tything in the parish of Havant.

Halinge, Helingei, and Helengey — pages 3, 9, and 11.

THE KING holds 2½ hides in Hayling, and Leman held them in parcenary, of King Edward, of which Harold deprived him, when he usurped the government, and converted them into a royal manor; and they so remain. They were then assessed at 2½ hides, but now at nothing. Here are 1½ ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 1 villen and 8 borderers with half a ploughland; also 1½ acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was 40s., afterwards 20s., and now worth 70s.

THE MONKS OF THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER hold and always held Hayling. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, but now at 4 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands; 11 villeins with 3½ ploughlands, and 1 acre of meadow; also a wood for 1 hog. The value in the time of King Edward was 100s., afterwards £4, and now £4 10s.

THE ABBEY OF GYMEGES (in Normandy) holds Hayling, Ulward (Albus) held it of Queen Eddid, allodially. It was then assessed at 12 hides, and now at 7 hides. Here are 14 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 23 villeins and 37 borderers with 17 ploughlands; also 3 servants, a saltern, which pays 6s. 8d., 2 fisheries worth 20d., 1 acre of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 20 hogs. The value in the time of King Edward was £15; afterwards £10, and now £12, but pays £15.

The monks of the Bishop of Winchester claim this manor because Queen Emma gave it to the church of St. Peter and St. Swithun, and at the same time, put the monks in possession of one half; the other half she gave to Ulward on condition, that he should hold it during his life, and for the expenses of his funeral; and afterwards it should return to the monastery, and thus part of the manor was held by Ulward, of the monks, till he died, which happened in the reign of King William; and this fact is attested by Elsi, abbot of Ramsey, and by the whole hundred.

Hayling Island consists of two parishes: North Hayling, with an area of 2539 acres, and South Hayling with an area of 8123 acres. In the reign of King Edward I. the whole of the island had become the property of the Abbey of Gy-meges, and was returned in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas at £27 3s. 4d.

THE MONKS OF THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER hold Havant, and they always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 7 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 20 villeins with 6 ploughs, 2 mills worth 15s., 3 salterns which pay 15d., and woods for 10 hogs. The value was and is £8.

The parish of Havant, which includes the Domesday manor of Brockhampton, has an area of 3200 acres.

SIRED holds Neutibrige of Earl Roger, and held it of Earl Harold. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands; 2 oxen in a yoke belong to the demesne; also 2 servants and 4 borderers with half a ploughland; and a mill worth 6s., 3 acres of meadow, and a fishery. The value was and is 30s.

— page 13.

THE ABBEY DE TROARZ holds 5 hides of Earl Roger, and Alward held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 3 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands; 11 villeins with 4 ploughlands, 1 acre of meadow, and a copse for fencewood. The value in the time of King Edward was and is £4. When it came in possession £3, but pays 100s.

BOVRE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present New Forest Hundred.

Achellie — page 26.

The parish of Boldre, which comprises several Domesday manors, has an area of 11940 acres.

Bovreford — page 26.

WISLAC held 1 hide of the King in Boldreford, but it is now in the Forest, except 2 acres of meadow which are held by Hugh de St Quintin. Its value was £10.

Brochellie and Mapleham — page 26.

EDNOD had 2 hides in parcenary, in Brockley and Mapleham; and was assessed at 2 hides; they are now in the forest. Here are 6 ploughlands; they were worth 20 shillings.

Brookley is the name of an estate in the parish of Brockenhurst.

Cildeest — page 26.

BREXI held Yaldhurst of the King in parcenary, and it was assessed at 5 hides. It is now in the forest; except 2 acres of meadow, which are held by Aluric the Little. Here were 8 ploughlands. It was worth £8.

Yaldhurst lies in the parish of Milford.

EARL ROGER holds $5\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands in Ashley, which Nigel holds under him, and were held by Saolf, in parcenary. They were then assessed at $5\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands, but now at $4\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands, 1 of which is in the forest. Here are 3 ploughlands in demesne; and 2 villeins and 10 borderers with 2 ploughlands, and $5\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow. Its value was 50s., and now 20s., and the King's share 8s.

EARL ROGER holds the third part of a hide, in Fernhill; and Nigel holds it under him, and it was held in parcenary by Godric. It was then assessed at 3 yardlands, but now at 1 yardland; the remainder being in the forest. Here is 1 ploughland, in demesne, with 1 villein. Its value was 13s., and now 10s., and the King's share 3s.

Fernhill is an estate in the parish of Milton.

Greteham — page 26.

BOLLE had half a hide of the King in Greatnam, and now held by Waleran, the huntsman; and was assessed at 1 hide, but is now in the forest. Its value was 40s.

Greatnam is the name of a farm in the parish of Milton.

EARL ROGER holds half a hide in Hinton [Admiral], which Fulcuin holds under him, and was held by Ulwi, in parcenary; it was then assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide, but now at $1\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands, as the remainder is in the forest. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 villeins, and $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow. Its value was and is 15s., and the King's share is 8s.

The same Earl holds 1 hide in Hinton, which is held by Nigel under him, and was held in parcenary by Edric. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now at 3 yardlands, the other being in the forest. Here are 3 ploughlands; 6 villeins have 2 ploughlands and 6 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 15s., and the King's share 3s.

EARL ROGER holds 1 hide in Lymington, and Fulcuin holds it under him. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now at $\frac{1}{4}$ a hide only, the woods being in the forest. Here are 2 ploughlands: 1 villein, 2 servants, and 3 borderers, with 1 ploughland and 4 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was 20s., afterwards and now 15s.

The parish of Lymington has an area of only 100 acres.

THE KING holds Lyndhurst, which was dependent on the royal manor of Ambresberie, and was assessed at 2 hides. Herbert the forester holds 1 yardland, assessed as such: the remainder is in the forest. Here are now only 2 borderers. Its value is 10s., but in the time of King Edward it was £6.

The parish of Lyndhurst has an area of 3618 acres.

EARL ROGER holds Testwood, which was held in parcenary by two freeholders, and was assessed at 1 hide. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 40s., and it is now in the forest, except the fourth part of a yardland, held of the Earl by a certain person who has on it 3 borderers. Its value is 3s.

Testwood is a tything and manor in the parish of Eling.

EARL ROGER holds 1 hide, in Ossemley, and Nigel holds it under him, and Salide held it in parcenary. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but it is now in the forest, except 1 acre of meadow, held by Nigel. It was worth 40s.

The same Earl holds 1 hide in Ossemley, and Fulcuin holds it under him, and Godwin held it in parcenary. It was then assessed at 1 hide; but it is now in the forest, except 2 acres of meadow. Here are 2 ploughlands; and it was worth 20s.

Ossemley is in the parish of Milton.

Pistelei — page 26.

EDRIC held 1 hide of the King, in Pilley; and was assessed at that quantity, but it is now in the forest, except 6 acres of meadow, which are held by Hugh de St. Quintin. It was worth 30s.

Pilley is a tything within the parish of Boldre.

Sueia — pages 12, 24, and 25.

THE ABBEY OF ROMSEY holds, and always held, 1 hide in Sway. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 1 hide, but now at 3 yardlands; 1 yardland being in the forest. Here is 1 ploughland; and 2 villeins, with 2 ploughlands, and 1 acre of meadow. Its value was and is 20s.

EARL ROGER holds 1 hide in Suei, which is held by Fulcuin under him, and it was held in parcenary by Alured. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now at 3 yardlands, the fourth being in the forest. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 4 borderers with $\frac{1}{4}$ a ploughland, and 1 acre of meadow. Its value was, in the time of King Edward, and afterwards, 9s., and now the same. The King's share is 2s.

The same Earl holds 1 hide in Suei, and Nigel holds it under him and it was held in parcenary by Durand. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now at 1 yardland; the remainder being in the forest. Here 2 villeins have 1 ploughland, and $\frac{1}{2}$ an acre of meadow. Its value was 20s., but now 5s., and the King's share is 15s.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Cliff in demesne, and it always belonged to his Monastery, and was assessed at 3 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands. Its value was, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, £10, but it is now in the forest, 1 meadow excepted, which is still in the possession of him by whom the manor was held. Here are 8 acres of meadow.

Scelve is the ancient way of spelling Cliff, and the place mentioned was probably the same as that known as Blackcliff, and now as Highcliff.

The Bishop of Winchester had Truham in demesne, and it always belonged to his monastery; and it was assessed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 4 ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 60s., but it is now in the forest.

Earl Roger held Trucham as 2 manors, and William held it under him; and Colgrin and Edwi held it, in parcenary: and were assessed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides. The whole is now in the forest. Here are 4 ploughlands, worth 60s.

Wegarestune — page 26.

ALURIC held Wigarestun, of the King, in parcenary, and it was assessed at 1 hide. It is now in the Forest, except 1 acre of meadow, which is held by the same Aluric. Here were two ploughlands worth 5s.

EARL ROGER holds half a hide in Walhampton, and Fulcuin holds it under him, and was held in parcenary by Alnod. It was then assessed at half a hide, but now at 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland, which is in demesne, with 1 borderer and 1 servant. Its value in the time of King Edward was 15s., afterwards and now 10s. The woods in the forest are worth 1s.

Walhampton is a tything of the parish of Boldre.

BROCTON, BROTONE. OR BRESTONE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Thorngate Hundred.

Benelei and Benelege — pages 20 and 23.

WILLIAM THE ARCHER holds Bentley, and Alwi held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne; and 6 borderers with 1 ploughland. Its value was in the time of King Edward 10s., and afterwards was, as now, 12s. 6d.

OSMUND holds Bentley of the King, and held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here is 1 ploughland; and 1 villein with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland. Its value was and is 5s.

The only trace of these places is Bentley Wood, in the parish of Broughton.

Bositone — page 16.

ROBERT THE SON OF GERALD holds Bossington, and Tovi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides, 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 borderers. Its value in the time of King Edward was 50s., afterwards 30s., and now 40s.

The parish of Bossington has an area of 615 acres.

THE KING holds Broughton, and King Edward held it in demesne. The number of hides is not known. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, and 8 villeins and 11 borderers with $4\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also 4 freemen, 3 mills worth 27s. 6d., 50 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. The value of what belongs to this manor in the time of King Edward, and afterwards, was £76 16s. 8d., and now £66; but pays £104 12s. 2d. There belongs to this manor a wood, which is in the hands of Bishop Walkelin, but it is not settled who is the true owner. A certain portion of land was given in the time of King Edward in exchange for a mill belonging to this manor; but the bailiff, in the time of King William, resumed the mill, and retains both it and the above portion of land.

In the same hundred is Dean, which is joined to this manor. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne; and 2 villeins and 14 borderers with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also 2 servants, 2 mills worth 20s., 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs.

Belonging to this manor the King has, in Wallop, 5 villeins, 1 servant, a mill worth 30d., 2 ploughlands in demesne; and ——— freemen, and 3 husbandmen discharge the accustomed duties.

Formerly, the bailiff had the honey and pasture belonging to the above manors, and also timber for house-building, but now the foresters enjoy these privileges. The honey and pasture in the King's forest are worth 10s. each.

The parish of Broughton, which includes the Domesday manors of Bentley and Pittleworth, has an area of 4366 acres.

Chinges-camp — page 7.

RICHERIUS holds Kings-camp [now Norman Court] of the Bishop, and the Abbey of Ely held it of Archbishop Stigand. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here is 1 ploughland; 1 villein, with half a ploughland; and woods for 3 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward was 15s., afterwards and now 5s.

Norman Court, the seat of T. Baring, Esq., M.P., is the place where the delegates of the Saxon population of the west, assembled at Old Sarum, attended to render homage to the Norman Conqueror and, in feudal phrase, according to the testimony of the Saxon chronicler, "became his men."

Dene — pages 19 and 20.

WALERAN THE HUNTSMAN holds Dean [East], and Manno held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a ploughland in demesne, with 1 villein and 1 borderer; also 4 acres of meadow, 2 servants, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward 10s., but afterwards and now, 5s. This land is not contiguous to any of his other manors.

The same Waleran holds Dean, and Boda held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides, 1 yardland. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 11 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a mill worth 20s., 4 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value in the time of King Edward was £4, afterwards 60s., and now 40s.

WALTER THE SON OF ROGER, holds Dean, and Herbert holds it under him, and Ustan held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here is 1 ploughland; and 2 borderers with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland. The value in the time of King Edward and afterwards 7s., and now the same, but pays 15s.

The parish of East Dean has an area of 1060 acres. A small portion of the adjoining parish of West Dean is in Hampshire, and the other portion in Wiltshire.

Denebrige — page 19.

GILBERT DE BRETEVILLE holds Dunbridge, and Chening held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 villeins with 1 ploughland; also 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value, in the time King Edward and afterwards, was as now, 25s. 2d.

BERNARD holds Embley, and Godwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at half a hide, but now it is not assessed. Here is half a ploughland. Its value was 10s., but it is now waste.

AGEMUND holds Hotlop of the King, and held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, but now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 1 villein, 2 borderers, and 1 servant, with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland. Its value was 40s., and now 30s.

Locherlega and Locheslei — pages 15 and 23.

HUGH DE PORT holds Lockerley, and Sterre held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 4 borderers, and 4 servants, with half a ploughland; also a mill, worth 10s., and 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. The same Sterre holds 1 hide which is in the King's forest. The value of the whole was, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, 15s. It is now worth 30s.

ULURIC holds Lockerley of the King, and his father held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a yardland. Here is 1 ploughland, $\frac{1}{2}$ is in demesne; and 2 borderers, with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland. Its value was and is 5s.

ALWI holds Lockerley of the King, and held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a ploughland in demesne. Its value was and is 30d.

The parish of Lockerley has an area of 1729 acres.

Mortefunde and Mortelhunte — pages 9 and 23.

THOMAS, ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, holds in the manor of Mottisfont one church and 6 chapels, with all customary dues from the living and the dead, the latter being at Broughton, Pittleworth, Tytherley, another Tytherley, Dean, and Lockerley. To this church belong 5 hides, wanting 1 yardland. His predecessor held it in the same manner of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 4 hides, wanting 1 yardland. There is 1 ploughland; also 5 villeins and 5 borderers with 2 ploughlands; 39 $\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, a wood for fences, and a messuage in Winchester which pays 30d. The King's bailiffs took from these 5 hides, 1 hide, and 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, a grove, and a piece of pasture, as the jury of the hundred declare. The bailiff, whose name was Cave, did this without the knowledge of Hugh de Port. The whole in the time of King Edward was valued at £4, afterwards at £3, and now £4 2s. 6d. The hide which is wanting was, and is now, worth 20s.

EDDULF holds 1 messuage of the King in Mottisfont, which was held by his father. Here is 1 borderer. It pays 8d., and is worth that sum.

The parish of Mottisfont has an area of 2789 acres, and as there is no further mention of the manor in the Domesday Book than the above, we have another proof that the Survey as respects Hampshire was not complete; more especially as we are told, the Archbishop Thomas held in the manor of Mottisfont, a church and 6 chapels, and yet no description of the said manor is to be found. Of the six above mentioned chapels, Broughton, East Tytherley, and West Tytherley are and long have been independent benefices. The chapel of Pittleworth is yet standing, but now used for other purposes than originally was intended; whilst Dean and Lockerley still continue chapelries to the mother church of Mottisfont which continued as part of the possessions of York Minster till the reign of Henry VIII. In the year 1364, John de Wyndewich, Treasurer of the Church of York, obtained from the Crown the grant of a market and fair to Mottisfont.

EDMUND holds Mulceltone of the King, and his father held 1 yardland of King Edward; for which another yardland was given him, in exchange, by Walter Gifard, and Sceva held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 1 borderer. It was, and is now, worth 5s.

HUMPHRY, THE CHAMBERLAIN, holds Pittleworth, and Ulnod held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands in demesne, and 2 borderers. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was as now, 60s.

Pittleworth, formerly an extra-parochial place, is now in the parish of Broughton.

Sceptune — page 16.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds Shipton [Bellenger], and Ustan held it allodially of King Edward; it was then, as now, assessed at 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 2 villeins, with half a ploughland. It was always worth 20s.

ALURED DE MARLBOROUGH holds Shipton, and Rainald holds it under him, and Carle held it allodially of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 5 ploughlands; 1 in demesne; 5 villeins and 3 borderers with 3 ploughlands, also a copse for fences; a church, and 6 servants, its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards, as now, £6.

The parish of Shipton Bellenger derives its adjunct from the family of de Berenger, who formerly held the manor.

HUGH DE PORT holds Sherfield [English], and Edric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 6 hides, and now at 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 11 villeins and 6 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill worth 5s., 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 20 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £3, and now £4.

The parish of Sherfield English has an area of 1780 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Snoddington, and Tovi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 5 borderers and 2 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward £3, afterwards 40s., and now £4.

Snoddington is the name of a farm, in the parish of Shipton Bellenger.

Tedorde — page 16.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds Tidworth [South], and two freemen held it allodially of King Edward as 2 manors. It was then as now assessed at 4 hides. Robert united the manors. Here are 1 villein, and 5 borderers, with 1 ploughland. The value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 40s., and now 30s.

Tidworth is also returned in the Andover Hundred.

Tiderlei and Tederlege — pages 19 and 23.

GILBERT DE BRETEVILLE holds Tytherley, and Papald holds it under him; and Chening held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland, $\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne, and 2 villeins and 1 borderer with 1 ploughland. The value is 10s.

WALERAN THE HUNTSMAN holds Tytherley, and Roger holds it under him, and Aluric held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne with 4 borderers. Its value is 10s.

ALWI THE SON OF TURBER holds Tytherley of the King, and three freemen held it as 3 manors allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 4 hides, 1 yardland; and now at 3 hides, 1 yardland. Here are 6 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 22 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also $7\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. The value of the whole was in the time of King Edward 50s., afterwards, and now 40s.

The jury of the hundred declare that they have never seen the seal, affixed by the King's steward, who had put Alwin Ret, the predecessor of the present tenant, in possession of this manor; and that, unless the King bear testimony to his claim, he has no title to anything here. Two of the former tenants were killed in the battle of Hastings.

ALWI THE SON OF SAULF holds Tytherley [East], of the King, and his father held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 9 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 mills worth 27s. 6d., 26 acres of meadow, and woods for 30 hogs. It was worth 60s., and now 40s.

The parish of East Tytherley has an area of 1560 acres, and West Tytherley of 2270 acres. The mention of mills in the manor held by Alwi, the son of Saulf, shows it to be a portion, at least, of East Tytherley.

Wallope — pages 4, 15, 23.

THE KING holds Wallop [Over], and it was held by the Countess Godiva of Earl Godwin; it was then assessed at 22 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 15 ploughlands, 6 in demesne; and 30 villeins and 39 borderers with 12 ploughlands; 18 servants, 3 mills worth 15s., 9 acres of meadow, a saltern worth 5d., woods for 40 hogs, and 2 houses in Winchester worth 65d. Here is a church to which belong 1 hide, half the tithes of the manor, and the whole church-shot, and 46d. for the villeins' tithes, and one half of the lands. Here is, also, a chapel, to which belongs 8 acres of tithe ground.

To this manor belonged, in the time of King Edward, the third penny out of 6 hundreds; it had also free right of pasture and pannage in all the woods belonging to those 6 hundreds. Its value was in the time of King Edward £30, afterwards £27, and is now the same, but pays a rent of £31 5s. What belongs to the churches is of the value of 25s.

The King holds another Wallop [Nether], which was held by Earl Harold, and was then assessed at 17 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 10 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 22 villeins and 16 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also 3 servants, 3 mills worth 25s., 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £20, now £23, but pays £27 10s., each ora reckoned at 20d.

HUGH DE PORT holds 1 hide in Wallop; and Boda holds it under him, and Edric held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide, 1 ploughland; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers, with 2 oxen. It was always worth 10s.

The same Hugh holds Wallop as half a manor, and Godric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, now at 1 yardland. There is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 4 borderers. Its value, in the time of King Edward, was 20s., afterwards and is now, 15s.

Four Englishmen hold Wallop of the King, and their father held it allodially of King Edward. It was then, as now, assessed at 1 hide. Here is $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland, in demesne, jointly among the 4 possessors. It was, and is now, worth 10s.

ALSI, THE SON OF BRIKI, holds Wallop of the King, and Alric held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here is 1 ploughland, which is occupied by 4 villeins. It was worth in the time of King Edward 20 shillings, afterwards 16s., but it is now worth 20s.

The parish of Over Wallop has an area of 4631 acres, and that of Nether Wallop of 7200 acres, but from the mills in the manor which were held by Harold being of greater value than those in the Countess Godiva's manor, we have set it down as Nether Wallop, which is situated lower on the stream, and the other as Over Wallop.

AGEMUND holds Wellow [East] of the King, and he held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 10 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 mills, worth 100d., 12 acres of meadow, and woods for 6 hogs. Its value was 60s., and now 40s.

Of this manor $\frac{1}{2}$ a yardland [West Wellow], was separated from it and from this county by Waleran, and reckoned as belonging to Wiltshire; and 3 yardlands, which belonged to the same, are now in the King's forest.

The parish of East Wellow, which includes the Domesday manor of Embley and Dunwood, formerly extra-parochial, has an area of 2373 acres. West Wellow, a tithing of East Wellow, is in Wiltshire.

CEPTUNE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Finchdean Hundred.

EARL ROGER holds Chalton in demesne, and it was held by Earl Godwin. It was then assessed at 60 hides, but now at 27 hides. Here are 35 ploughlands, 10 in demesne; and 55 villeins and 27 borderers with 27 ploughlands; also a church, 22 servants, 1 acre of meadow, a wood for 50 hogs, and pasture worth 10s. Its value was in the time of King Edward £56, afterwards £35, and now £80, but pays £110 and a mark of gold.

WALTER held Sunwood of the same earl, and Tombi held it of Earl Godwin. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a chapel, 1 servant, 1 acre of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs; the greatest part of which was destroyed by the wind. The inhabitants of the manor say that Sunwood was not in the Earl's manor of Chalton; and that Earl William, who gave it, did not grant him Sunwood. Its value in the time of King Edward was and is £4, and when it came into possession £3, but pays 100s.

The manor of Chalton appears to be co-extensive with the Upper half of the Finchdean Hundred, which has an area of 10560 acres, and consists of the parishes of Chalton, Clanfield, Idsworth, Catherington, and Blendworth, formerly known as the "Five Manors." Sunwood is a hamlet in the parish of Buriton.

THE KING holds Mapledurham in demesne, and it was held by Ulveve, in the possession of Queen Matilda. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 20 hides, but now at 13 hides. Here are 20 ploughlands, 4 in demesne; and 34 villeins and 15 borderers, with 15 ploughlands; also a church, 8 servants, 3 mills worth 20s., 5 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 30 hogs, and herbage producing 6s. 3d.

Of this manor Albold the cook holds $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides, which were held by Tedgar in the time of King Edward on condition that he should not remove. These, assessed at half a hide, were included in the assessment of the manor. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne; and 5 villeins and 3 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants and 1 acre of meadow.

Of this manor also Tetbald holds $3\frac{1}{2}$ hides, given him by Richard of Tunbridge at the time when he held the manor of the Queen, but it is not known on what title he holds them. Two freemen held them and were not permitted to remove. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, and 4 villeins and 8 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants, 1 acre of meadow, and a copse which produces 6d.

The value of the whole manor in the time of King Edward was £25, afterwards and now the same; but those who now hold it pay £32; Albold's share is 40s., and Tetbald's £4.

The manor of Mapledurham, in its full extent, corresponds with the lower half of the Finchdean Hundred, and consists of the parishes of Buriton and Petersfield, with an area of 8100 acres. The church of Buriton appears in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas, and in other returns down till the reign of Queen Elizabeth, as the Church of Mapledurham.

CILLEI HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Chutely Hundred.

Aclei — pages 14 and 16.

HUGH DE PORT holds Oakley [Church], and Alwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 50 hides, and now at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, 1 yardland. Here are 1 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 6 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 4 servants, a church, and a copse for fences. In the time of King Edward it was worth, and afterwards, £6; and now £8.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds Oakley of the king, and Tovi held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here is 1 ploughland; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands.

There is half a yardland in Gerlei which Bolle held allodially of King Edward, and Robert added it to this manor; but the jury of the hundred affirm that it never belonged to it. The whole, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was of the value of 15s., and now 20s.

HUGH THE SON OF BALDRUS holds Oakley, and Bundi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here is 1 villein and 1 borderer. Its value was, in the time of King Edward and afterwards 15s., and now 20s. Here are 4 hides which were taken from the King without title or permission.

The parish of Church Oakley has an area of 1605 acres; but it is probable that a portion of the above relates to North Oakley, a tything in Kingsclere parish and hundred.

Dene — page 17.

WILLIAM DE OW holds Deane, and Thol held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 20 hides, and now at 11 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 12 villeins and 10 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also 11 servants, and woods for 1 hog. Its value in the time of King Edward was £10, afterwards £11, and now £12.

The same William holds $\frac{1}{2}$ yardland 4 acres in Gerlei, and Elward held it allodially of King Edward, but it is now added to the manor of Deane, and belongs to it, as the jury of the hundred affirm.

The parish of Deane has an area of 1557 acres. It is now in the Overton hundred.

WALTER THE SON OF OTHER holds Gerlei, and Ocsen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 5 villeins and 6 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 1 servant, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 30s., and now 40s.

Odetone — pages 9 and 15.

THE MONKS OF THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER hold Wootton [St. Lawrence]. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 20 hides. Here are 20 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 27 villeins and 14 borderers with 15 ploughlands; also 10 servants, 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £15, afterwards £16, and now £20, but pays £28 12s. 6d.

HUGH DE PORT holds Wootton of the the Bishop of Bayeux, and Elmer and Alviet held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland, and 1 acre of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards, 50s., and now, is 100s.

The parish of Wootton St. Lawrence has an area of 3957 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Sherbourn [Monks] of the Bishop of Bayeux, and Alnod Cild held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $10\frac{1}{2}$ hides, $\frac{1}{2}$ yardland. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 18 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 5 servants, and 16 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £8, and now £10.

The parish of Monk Sherbourn, which includes the Domesday manor of Chineham has an area of 3342 acres.

ALSI BERCENISTRE holds Steventon of the King, and Elfelm held it of King Edward, and there were 5 hides which were assessed as now, at 3 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 5 villeins, 3 borderers, and 8 servants, with 2 ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards 70s., and now £4.

GODWIN, the Falconer, holds half a hide of the King, which he held of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at half a hide, and was and is worth 4s.

The parish of Steventon, which is in the Basingstoke Hundred, has an area of 2100 acres.

Wortinges — page 10.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Worting. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 9 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 servants and a church. Its value was and is 100s.

The parish of Worting has an area of 1139 acres.

CLERE HUNDRED.

Which corresponds generally with the present Kingsclere Hundred.

Chenol — pages 14 and 17.

HUGH DE PORT holds Chenol, and Faderlin holds it under him; and Alnod held it in parcenary of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $3\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands. Here is 1 ploughland, in demesne; and 1 villein and 10 borderers with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland; also 2 servants, and 2 acres of meadow. It was always worth 20s.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Chenol, and Oidelard holds it under him, and Cheping held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 10 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants, 2 mills worth 11s. 3d., and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 60s., and now 70s.

Clere — pages 5, 11, 14, 20, and 24.

THE KING holds Kingsclere in demesne, and it was held by King Edward, and belongs to the manor of Basingstoke. The number of hides is not known. Here are 16 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 21 villeins and 31 borderers with 13 ploughlands; also 2 mills worth 100d., 7 servants, a toll producing 15s., a wood which pays 20s., 6 acres of meadow, woods for 15 hogs, and 2 freemen who pay 18s.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER'S, WINCHESTER, holds in Kingsclere a church, and 4 hides 1 yardland. These were given to the abbey by King William, in exchange for land in Winchester, on which stood a house belonging to the King. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 4 hides 1 yardland, but now is not assessed, the King being answerable for the geld. Queen Eddid held it, and here was a hall. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 3 villeins and 14 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill worth 5s., 2 acres of meadow, and herbage producing 8d. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £7, and now £6.

HUGH DE PORT holds 1 hide in Clere; and Fadrelin holds it under him. Saulf and Godwin held it in parcenary of King Edward. There were 2 halls, but now only one. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, 1 in demesne; with 4 borderers and 3 servants; also a mill worth 12s., and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 20s.

WILLIAM THE SON OF BADERON holds Clere, and Sexi held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 4 hides, but now at 3 hides $2\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands. Here are 7 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 14 villeins and 16 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 1 servant, 3 mills worth 7s. 6d., and 7 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £7, and now the same, but pays £10.

RAVELIN holds Clere of the king, and held it in the time of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, $\frac{1}{2}$ yardland, and now at 2 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 3 villeins, and 18 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 4 servants, a mill worth 50d., 3 acres of meadow, and herbage producing 6s. 2d. Its value was and is 65s.

LEWIN holds 1 yardland, of the King in Clere, and it was held by him in the time of King Edward and was then as now assessed at the same. Here is half a ploughland, in demesne, with 1 servant, 2 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value is 5s.

ALWIN WIT holds 2 hides which he had held in the time of King Edward, and were then assessed at 2 hides, but now at $\frac{1}{2}$ hide. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 2 servants, 1 villein and 1 borderer with half a ploughland. Its value was 40s., and now 30s.

This Alwin held the same land, in the time of King Edward, under Wigot's protection, but he now holds it under Milo's; it having been given him by Humphry Wigot, (called Wolf's Face,) in exchange for Broadwater (as he says), but the jury of the hundred know nothing of it.

EDWIN the huntsman holds 2 hides of the King's manors, which were given him by Edward. They were then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 5 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants, and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 18s.

Clere was in the Anglo-Saxon times the designation of an extensive tract of country, lying on the Berkshire border, of which the parishes of Kingsclere, Burghclere, and Higheclere form part. At the period of the compilation of the Domesday Book, its eastern portion was held principally by the King, and the western portion by the Bishop of Winchester. At the present time the parish of Kingsclere is in the hundred of that name, and Higheclere is in the Exinger Hundred, whilst the intermediate parish of Burghclere, lies in both hundreds. The above notices may therefore apply to places either in Kingsclere, which has an area of 12,900 acres; or in Burghclere, which has an area of more than 3,000 acres. The first notice we identify as Kingsclere, from the place mentioned as being held in demesne by the King; although in the Survey it is entered as lying in the Basingstoke Hundred, apparently from the reason that it belonged to the manor of Basingstoke. The second notice which, from a mistake of the scribe, is entered as being in the Mansbridge Hundred, clearly relates to Kingsclere; as not only Henry I. confirmed the grant of his father to St. Peter's Abbey, but that Abbey had, for centuries, the patronage of the church of Kingsclere. With regard to the other notices, we will say no more than that we think it probable that a place known as Whetwary, in the parish of Burghclere, derives its name from Alwin Wit.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Itchingswell for his Monks, and it was always abbey land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 7½ hides. Here are 11 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 18 villeins and 12 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also 2 servants and 2 mills worth 100d, and 3 acres of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward was £7, afterwards £6, and now £8.

Hannington — pages 19 and 24.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Hannington for his Monks, and it was always abbey land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 7 hides, and now at 6½ hides, half a yardland. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 17 villeins and 7 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also a church and 4 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards £6, and now £8, but pays £15.

LEWIN holds 1 hide in Hannington, and Estau held it in parcenary of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland, 1 villein, 2 borderers, and 3 servants with half a ploughland. Its value was and is 20s.

The parish of Hannington has an area of 1985 acres.

Sidemanestone — page 12.

THE ABBEY OF ROMSEY holds Sidmonton, and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides and now at 7½ hides. Here are 11 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 17 villeins and 11 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also 1 servant, 4 acres of meadow, and a wood for the pannage of 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £7, afterwards £8, and now £10.

The parish of Sidmonton has an area of 4470 acres.

Swantune — page 17.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds 1 hide in Swampton, and Cheping held it of the Bishop and Monks of Winchester, and it was always abbey land. It was granted to him for his own life, after which it was to revert to the church. This is affirmed by the monks, but the hundred know nothing of such an agreement; they only know that it was abbey land, and that it neither did, nor does now, pay the geld; but cannot tell why it has not continued in the same tenure. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 2 villeins and 3 borderers; and a mill worth 15s. In the time of King Edward and afterwards the value was, and is now, 25s.

Swampton is a tything in the parish of St. Mary Bourn, which in the reign of the Conqueror formed part of the manor of Hurstbourn, held by the Bishop of Winchester for his Cathedral.

Ulveretune and Finlei — page 21.

ALURED the priest holds Wolverton and Finley of the King, and Ulveva held it of King Edward, and was permitted to remove. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 7 villeins and 17 borderers, with 5 ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and afterwards, £6; and now 100s.

The parish of Wolverton comprises an area of 1395 acres.

Werste — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Ewhurst, and Walter holds it under him, and Godwin held it, but could not remove. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland, also woods for 5 hogs. Its value was always 30s.

The parish of Ewhurst has an area of 480 acres.

CORONDEL HUNDRED,

Which forms the present Crondal Hundred.

Crundele — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Crondal, for his Monks, and it was always church land. Here were 50 hides. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 40 hides. Here are 39 ploughlands, 4 in demesne; and 45 villeins and 11 borderers with 25 ploughlands; also a church worth 20s., 12 servants, and woods for the pannage of 80 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £15 10s., afterwards £6, and now £24.

Of this manor Germane holds of the Bishop 8 hides in Itchell and in Cove. Lewin and Ulward held them in parcenary of the Bishop, but were not permitted to remove. Each of them had a hall, but when Germane came into possession there was only one. There are 3 ploughlands in demesne; and 20 villeins and 10 borderers, with 6 ploughlands, also 6 servants, a mill worth 3s., 2 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 15 hogs. Its value was £6, afterwards 40s., and now £8.

Of the same manor William holds of the Bishop, 3 yardlands in Beddelie, which were held by Aluric as villein of the bishop. Here is 1 ploughland, with 1 borderer, and 4 servants.

Of the same manor, Turstin holds 7 hides in Sutton [Long]. Justan and Leffi held them of the Bishop, in parcenary, but could not remove, and both had a hall. Here 3 ploughlands are in demesne; and 3 villeins and 4 borderers with half a ploughland. In the time of King Edward it was worth £7, it is now worth the same sum. When it first came into possession it was worth £40. Of the same manor, Odin of Windsor holds of the bishop 3 hides in Farnborough. Alwin held them of the bishop in parcenary, and was not permitted to remove. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 7 villeins and 4 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 5 servants, a mill worth 10d., 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 6 hogs. In the time of King Edward the value was and is now 60s., and when it came into possession, 40s.

The parish of Crondal, which includes the Domesday manor of Itchell, now known as the tything of Ewshott, has an area of 9614 acres. Cove is a tything of Yately. The parish of Long Sutton has an area of 2267 acres, and the parish of Farnborough of 2208 acres.

Effele — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Yately, and Stenesnoc held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 14 villeins and 8 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also a church, 2 servants, a mill worth 5s., a fishery which furnishes 100 eels, 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 100 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 100s., and now £6, but pays £8.

In the original, this place is mentioned as being in the Bosmere Hundred, but there is no place within it which in any way answers to the name, and the requirement of 100 eels, which is inapplicable to that district, and is well suited to Yately, which has the river Blackwater on two of its sides, and the extent of its woods and number of hogs are confirmatory of our view. The parish of Yately, which includes the Domesday manors of Cove and Minley, has an area of 10,000 acres.

DROCHENEFORD HUNDRED,

Now in the Bishop's Waltham Hundred.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Droxford for his Monks, and it was always churchland. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 16 hides, and now at 14 hides. Here are 16 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 32 villeins and 13 borderers with 14 ploughlands; also 6 servants, a church of the value of 20s., 2 mills worth 15s. 2d.; the profit of the soil 12s., 10 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 40 hogs. The value in the time of King Edward was, and is now £26, and when it came into possession £20.

Of this manor Hugh de Port holds of the bishop 2 hides in Binstead, and Agemund held them and could not remove. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne; and 3 villeins and 3 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 6 servants, a mill which pays 10s., 7 acres of meadow, woods for 5 hogs, and pasture worth 10d. The value in the time of King Edward was and is now 60s., and when it came into possession 40s.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds, by force, half a yardland of this capital manor; it belonged to it in the time of King Edward, but the monks discharge it of the geld.

The parish of Droxford has an area of 6986 acres.

EDEFELE, EFEDDEL, OR HEFEDEL HUNDRED,

Now in the Odiham Hundred.

GONWIN holds Berchley, and Edwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1½ hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 4 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill which pays 20d., and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 20s.

All that is known of this place is that the alien Priory of Andwell, near Basingstoke, had a mill and lands at Berchley as early as the reign of Henry I.

HUGH DE PORT holds Elvetham of the Abbey of Chertsey, and Edric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne; and 4 villeins, 4 borderers, and 8 servants, with 2 ploughlands; also 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. In the time of King Edward its value was and is now 30s., and when it came into possession 25s.

The parish of Elvetham has an area of 3200 acres.

HUGH, WITH A GREAT BEARD, holds Dogmesfield of the King, and Suein held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at nothing. Here are 6 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 10 villeins and 8 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 1 servant, a mill worth 6s. 6d., 5 acres of meadow, and woods for 100 hogs. Its value is 100s.

The parish of Dogmersfield has an area of 1728 acres.

KING WILLIAM holds Odiham in demesne, and it was held by Earl Harold. Here are 75½ hides. It was formerly assessed at 38 hides, but is not now assessed. Here are 56 ploughlands, 15 in demesne; and 137 villeins and 60 borderers with 40 ploughlands; also 50 servants, 8 mills which pay 56s. 7d., 21 acres of meadow, and woods for 160 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £50 by tale, and now £50 in weight.

Two hides of this manor belong to 2 churches situated in it, on which the priest has 1 villein with 1 ploughland, and they are worth £6.

Two other priests hold 2 churches of this manor, with 2 yardlands and 1½ ploughlands, worth 67s. 8d.

This manor probably extended over the present parishes of Odiham, Greywell, Hartley Wintney, and Rotherwick, which have an area of 12,476 acres. The manor was subsequently divided, and in the Escheats of the Crown, Greywell is returned as a manor in the 9th of Edward I. Stapely, now a tything of Odiham, is returned as another manor in the same reign. In that of Henry III. Richard de Male held a portion of the manor of Odiham from whom the hamlet of Murrell probably derives its name. Hartley Wintley is a manor within the manor of Odiham. The two churches, mentioned as being situated in the manor, are probably those of Odiham and Greywell, and the other two belonging to it, Rotherwick and Lyss—the patronage of the benefices and the great tithes of the parishes having for centuries been attached to the chancellorship of the Cathedral Church of Salisbury.

THE ABBEY OF CHERTSEY holds Winchfield, and Walter the brother of Other holds it of the abbey, and Alwin held it allodially of King Edward, and it did not belong to the abbey. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, and 10 villeins and 7 borderers with 1½ ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards 60s., and now 30s.

The parish of Winchfield comprises an area of 1583 acres.

EGHEIETE HUNDRED,

Forming a portion of the present Christchurch Hundred.

Bailocheslei — page 12.

ALSI THE PRIEST holds Bashley of the King, and he held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, 3 yardlands, but now at 3 yardlands only. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 2 servants, also 1 villein and 1 borderer, half a mill worth 13s., and 16 acres of meadow. Its value was and is, 20s.

Bashley is a hamlet in the parish of Milton.

Bortel — page 12.

ALNOD, THE PRIEST, holds Bortel of the King, and he held it in parcenary of King Edward. It was then assessed as now at 1½ yardlands. Here is half a ploughland, 2 servants, the third part of a mill worth 25d., 10½ acres of meadow, and 2 messuages in Christchurch. Its value was 5s., and now 10s.

HUGH DE PORT holds of the Bishop of Bayeux, 1 hide in Knapp, and Hugh holds it under him, and three freeholders held it in parcenary of King Edward, and each had a hall. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, also 1 servant, a mill worth 20s., a fishery which yields 50d., and 16 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 20s., and now 30s.

The same Hugh holds 1 hide in demesne, which was held by Wislac (who had a hall) of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. It is called Stanpit. Here is 1 ploughland, It was and is now, worth 15s.

Knapp is a hamlet within the parish of Christchurch.

HUGH DE PORT holds Herne of the Bishop of Bayeux, and two lords of manors held it. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 borderers, 1 servant, and half a fishery which pays 2d. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and afterwards 20s., and now 30s.

Hurn is a tything in the parish of Christchurch.

SAULF'S WIFE holds Hubborn of the King, and it was held by Saulf of the King, and was assessed at 1 hide, but now at 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland; 2 borderers, and 6 acres of meadow. It was worth 20s., and now worth 15s.

The King holds Holdenhurst, which was held by Earl Tosti. It was then assessed at 29 hides ¼ yardland, but when granted to Hugh de Port it consisted of 22 hides ¼ yardland, but was not assessed. There are 2 more hides in the Island. There are now 18½ hides ¼ yardland, and 3½ hides in the New Forest. Here are 20 ploughlands, 4½ in demesne; and 37 villeins and 25 borderers, with 19 ploughlands; also a chapel, 14 servants, a mill worth 15s., and 3 fisheries for the use of the hall, 181 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 6 hogs. There are 7 hides in the forest, where dwell 13 villeins and 3 borderers, with 8 ploughlands; with these hides, now detached from the manor, there are woods for the pannage of 129 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £44, afterwards £34, and now £24, by tale, but it pays £25, reckoning 20d. in the ora. The part in the forest is valued at £12 10s.

The parish of Holdenhurst, which is a chapelry to Christchurch, comprises an area of 7290 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Stanpit, and Godwin the priest held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, ½ in demesne; and 2 villeins and 2 borderers, with half a ploughland, also 8 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward afterwards, 20s., and now 40s., but pays 60s.

Stanpit is a hamlet in the parish of Christchurch.

Thuinam — pages 4 and 12.

THE KING holds Christchurch in demesne, and King Edward held it. It was then, as now, assessed at 1 yardland. Here are 13 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 21 villeins and 5 borderers with 12 ploughlands; also 1 servant, 3 freemen, 4 Radchenistri, with 2½ ploughlands, a mill worth 5s., and 61 acres of meadow. The woods are in the King's forest, and there are 5 villeins with 3 ploughlands; and thirty-one messuages in the borough pay 16d., yearly tax.

Its value, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was £19 by tale, and now £10, reckoning 20d. to the ora; but pays £12 10s. The part in the forest, is valued at £12 10s.

THE CANONS of the church of the Holy Trinity of Christchurch hold in the village 5 hides, 1 yardland, and 1 hide in the Isle of Wight. These hides always belonged to that church, and were assessed in the time of King Edward at 6 hides 1 yardland. Here are 5 ploughlands, in demesne, and 11 villeins and 13 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants, a mill worth 30d., 108 acres of meadow, a wood for 2 hogs, and in the borough 6 messuages with a rent of 13s. 4d.

To this church belongs the whole tithe of Christchurch; and a third of the tithes of Holdenhurst. Its value was in the time of King Edward £6, and now £8.

In Bovere hundred the church of the Holy Trinity of Christchurch had 8 acres of land in Andret, but they are now in the forest.

The parish of Christchurch includes several Domesday manors, and has an area of 24,865 acres.

THE ABBEY OF MILTON (Dorset) has 12 acres of land, which are held of the abbey by Edward the sheriff. They were never assessed. Here is 1 villein, with 2 oxen and 1 acre of meadow. There was a fishery, but not now. It is worth 40d.

In the same hundred Willao has 4 acres of meadow, and Aluric the physician, also 4 acres.

ESSEBURNE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Pastrow Hundred.

ERNULF DE HESDING holds Coombe of the King, and Edric held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, and now at 2 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 10 villeins and 12 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also a church, 6 servants, and a copse for fences. In the time of King Edward, and afterwards, its value was as now £6.

THE KING holds Hurstloun [Tarrant] in demesne, and King Edward held it. The number of hides are not known. Here are 16 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 24 villeins and 12 borderers with 15 ploughlands; also 10 acres of meadow, woods for 20 hogs, and herbage worth 20s. Vitalis, the Priest, holds the church of the manor with $\frac{1}{2}$ hide, and here he has 1 ploughland with 2 borderers, 1 acre of meadow, and the church-shot which is valued at 14s.

The three manors of Basingstoke, Clere, and Hurstbourn are obliged to provide an entertainment for the King, for 1 day.

The parish of Hurstbourn Tarrant, formerly known as Hurstbourn Regis, obtained its present adjunct from the Abbey of Tarrant, in Dorsetshire, which held the manor for several centuries. This parish, with that of Vernham Dean, a chapelry, comprises an area of 8500 acres. That the latter formed part of the original manor is rendered certain, from a return in the Calendarium Rotulorum 7th of King John, that Henry de Berneville held Ferneham manor, a member of that of Hurstbourn manor.

CROC, THE HUNTSMAN, holds Easton [Crua], and Linxi held it in parcenary, of King Edward. It was then assessed at 6 hides, and now at 3 hides, $\frac{1}{4}$ yardland. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 7 villeins and 10 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, 20 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward £6, afterwards £3, and now £6.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, GLOUCESTER, holds Linkenholt, and Ernulf de Heding gave it to the church, with the approbation of King William, and Eddric held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but now at 1 only, the others being in demesne. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 8 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 6 servants, 7 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards, and is now £4.

The parish of Linkenholt has an area of 1074 acres.

Liveselle — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Liveselle, and Faderlin holds it under him, and Ezi held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 10 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards and now £3.

WILLIAM BELET holds Woodcot, and Faderlin, jointly with his daughter, holds it under him, and Ansfrid held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 7 borderers, 1 servant, and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards 20s., and now 30s.

The parish of Woodcot has an area of 1850 acres.

THE KING holds Upton, which was part of Queen Eddid's possessions. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now is not assessed. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 5 villeins and 3 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 1 servant, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards 40s., and now 60s., but pays £4.

Upton is an estate partly in Hurstbourn Tarrant and partly in Vernham Dean parish.

ESSELEI HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Bishop's Sutton Hundred.

Brondene and Biendene — page 22.

MILO, THE PORTER, holds Bramdean of the King, and two freemen held it as 3 manors allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, $2\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands, and now at nothing. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands in demesne, and 4 villeins and 6 borderers with 1 ploughland, 5 acres of meadow, and a house in Winchester which pays 3s. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., afterwards 40s., and now 50s.

ODE OF WINCHESTER holds Bramdean, and Lewin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then and is now assessed at 1 hide 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland which is in demesne, with 3 borderers and 3 acres of meadow. Here is a copse for making fences. It was in the time of King Edward and is now worth 40s. When it came into possession it was worth 5s.

In spite of the variation of the spelling of the name, we are of opinion that both of the above notices relate to the parish of Bramdean, which has an area of 1204 acres.

Bighetone — page 10.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Bighton. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 7 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne; and 8 villeins and 3 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 3 servants, 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. Of this manor Fulchered holds 2 hides, and Borghil 2 hides, and here are 2 ploughlands in demesne; and 3 villeins and 6 borderers with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, and 3 servants. The whole of the manor was in the time of King Edward worth 100s., and afterwards £6. What the abbey holds is now worth £8, and what is held by others £4.

In the original this place appears as if situated in the Chutely Hundred, from which it is a distance of many miles. The parish of Bighton comprises an area of 2100 acres. In 1292 the portion of the manor held by the Abbey was of the value of £14 16s. 1d.

Sudtone — page 12.

EARL EUSTACE holds Sutton [Bishop's] of the King, and Earl Harold held it. Here are 20 hides, assessed at 10 hides, and the jury of the hundred say that it was so in the time of King Edward. Here are 50 ploughlands, 5 in demesne; and 60 villeins and 60 borderers with 23 ploughlands; also a church, with 1 hide, 32 servants, 4 mills worth 35s., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 100 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward was £50, afterwards and now £60, but pays £80 by tale.

The manor of Bishop Sutton extended over the present parishes of Bishop's Sutton, and Ropley, which have an area of 8100 acres. It became a portion of the possessions of the see of Winchester, in the time of Bishop de Blois, who erected at Sutton an episcopal mansion.

Tistede — page 7.

RANULPH holds Tisted, of the Bishop of Winchester in the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 7 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 15 villeins and 3 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, and 2 servants. In the time of King Edward and afterwards it value was £4, and now £6.

From its situation in the Essele hundred, we suppose the above to relate to West Tisted, which has an area of 2268 acres. Of East Tisted, which is in the Selbourn hundred, we have no mention, or of the ancient manor of Rotherfield, which together comprise an area of 2600 acres—a further proof that the Survey was not completed.

EVINGARE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Evingar Hundred.

Clere — page 8.

THE BISHOP holds Clere, and the church always had it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at $7\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 17 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 20 villeins and 18 borderers with 16 ploughlands; also 24 freemen, 3 servants, 1 mill worth 30d., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £12 3s. 2d., afterwards £7, and now £11.

Aluric, a priest, holds of the Bishop the church with 1 hide, and has 1 ploughland with 1 borderer, 2 servants, and 1 acre of meadow. It is worth 40s.

It is impossible to decide whether the above relates to the parish of Highclere, or to that of Burghclere, both being episcopal manors, but the notice is not sufficient for both places.

Esseburne — page 8.

THE BISHOP holds Hurstbourn [Priors], and it always belonged to his monks. In the time of King Edward, it was and is now assessed at 38 hides. Here are 51 ploughlands, 4 in demesne, and 55 villeins and 38 borderers with 45 ploughlands; also 14 servants, 5 mills worth 25s., 30 acres of meadow, and woods for 20 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £36, afterwards £26, and now £40.

Of this manor Goisfrid holds of the bishop in the same village, 5 hides, and 3 thanes held them of the bishop and could not remove, and each had a hall. Here are 3 ploughlands in demesne, also 19 borderers, 2 servants, a mill worth 12s. 6d., and 12 acres of meadow. Its value was £8, and now £6.

Richerius holds of the bishop 2 hides, and Alnod held them, and could not remove. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, 9 borderers, 3 servants, 5 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 3 hogs. It is worth 40s.

In the same manor, William holds 2 hides, wanting half a yardland, and Sawin held them of the bishop, and could not remove. Here is 1 ploughland with 1 villein, 12 borderers with another, also 4 acres of meadow. Its value was £6, and now 40s. Sawin holds of the bishop the church with 1 hide, has a team of 7 oxen, and 2 acres of meadow. It was and is worth 50s.

This manor comprises the parishes of Hurstbourn Priors and St. Mary Bourne, with an area of 10,800 acres.

Witcerce — page 8.

THE BISHOP holds Whitechurch for his monks, and it always belonged to the church. In the time of King Edward there were 50 hides, assessed at 38 hides, and now at 33 hides. Here are 33 ploughlands, 5 in demesne; and 42 villeins and 50 borderers with 28 ploughlands; also 10 servants, 3 mills worth 40s., 15 acres of meadow, and woods for 40 hogs. In the time of King Edward and afterwards its value was £30, and now £35. Radulph, the son of Seifride, holds a manor called Freefolk, intended for the support of the monks, which is part of the above manor and hides. Ednod held it of the bishop, and could not remove. It was then assessed at 9 hides, and now at 4 hides, with those above-mentioned. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 17 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 5 servants, a mill worth 20s., and 4 acres of meadow. In the time of King Edward and afterwards, its value was £16, and now £10. Of this manor William de Fiscanno holds 7 hides in Witnal, and in two other places, and two thanes held them of the bishop, but could not remove, and were assessed with the above hides. Here are 7 ploughlands, $4\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne; and 8 villeins and 11 borderers with $3\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also 18 servants, a mill worth 20s., and 4 acres of meadow. In the time of King Edward, and afterwards, its value was £10, and now £7. Of the same manor, Malger holds 1 hide, which is villein's land; and here he has 2 villeins and 1 borderer, with 1 ploughland. Its value is 20s. Aluric, a priest, holds the church of the manor with 1 hide; and has in demesne, 1 ploughland, with 3 borderers, and 3 acres of meadow. It is worth 20s.

The parish of Whitchurch, which includes the tything of Freefolk Priors, evidently the place spoken of, has an area of 6142 acres. There is also the adjoining parish of Freefolk Manor, of which there is no mention in the Survey. Witnal is the name of a farm in the parish of Whitchurch.

FALEIE HUNDRED,

Being a portion of the present Fawley Hundred.

WALCHELIN, Bishop of Winchester, holds Alresford in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 51 hides, and now at 42 hides. Here are 40 ploughlands, 10 in demesne; and 48 villeins and 86 borderers, with 13 ploughlands; also 31 servants, 9 mills worth £9 2s. 6d., 8 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 10 hogs, herbage paying 50d., also 3 churches of the value of £4, and formerly paid £6, but could not bear so high a rent.

Of the land of this manor, Robert holds $3\frac{1}{2}$ hides, Walter 2 hides, Durand 4 hides in Soberton, and 6 hides in Bieford, and an Englishman holds $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. These have 6 ploughlands in demesne, and 17 villeins, 6 borderers, and 19 servants, with 6 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 20s., and 6 acres of meadow. Ulric Cepe, Robert's predecessor, could not remove; neither could Osbern, Walter's predecessor; nor Edward and Elric, the predecessors of Durand. The whole manor was in the time of King Edward of the value of £40, and afterwards £20. The bishop's demesne is now worth £40, Robert's part £4, Walter's 40s., and Durand's £11.

This manor was probably co-extensive with the present parishes of Old Alresford, New Alresford, and Medstead, which have an area of 6100 acres. The two latter were till lately chapelries to the former, which will account for the three churches which are mentioned.

Avintune — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, holds Avington for his monks, and it was always church land. In the time of King Edward it was, and is now, assessed at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 3 borderers, with 4 ploughlands; also a church, 3 servants, and 16 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £6, afterwards 100s., and now £10.

The parish of Avington has an area of 1794 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Easton in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. It was assessed in the time of King Edward as now at 6 hides. Here are 11 ploughlands, 6 in demesne, and 7 villeins and 42 borderers, with 4 ploughlands; also 12 servants, 2 chapels, 2 mills worth 30s., 58 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 15 hogs, and pasture which pays 14d. Turstin holds 52 acres of the demesne, held by Ælfeth. Of the land of this manor, Goisfrid holds 3 hides, and Brictric held them in parcenary of the Bishop, but could not remove. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, with 17 borderers, and 10 acres of meadow. Of the same land Alwin holds 1 hide and 1 yardland, and he held it in the time of King Edward, and has 1 ploughland, with 5 borderers, and 6 acres of meadow. The value of the whole was in the time of King Edward £24, and afterwards £12. What the bishop holds is now worth £30, and what held by Goisfrid £3, and by Alwin 25s.

The manor of Easton, till about a century since, extended over a portion of the parish of Martyr's Worthy, and which may account for the mention of two churches in this manor; and more especially as the Bishop of Winchester is still the patron of the rectories of Easton and Martyr's Worthy. The parish of Easton has an area of 2700 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Kilmiston, and Godwin held it of the Bishop, and could not remove. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 1 villein and 4 borderers, with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also 6 servants, and 7 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward, as afterwards, and is now, 100s.

ELDRED holds Kilmiston of the Bishop, and his wife held it. It was in the time of King Edward, as now, assessed at 5 hides, but the tenant could not remove. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 6 villeins and 3 borderers, with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also a chapel and 7 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 100s.

The parish of Kilmiston has an area of 1920 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Hinton [Ampner] and it always belonged to his monastery. Here are 8 hides which, in the time of King Edward, were as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 15 villeins and 14 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 6 servants, 8 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs; a church worth 40s., but pays 50s. The value in the time of King Edward was and is now, £8., and when it came into possession, 100s.

In the Original, the manor of Hinton is entered as being in the Mansbridge Hundred from which it is removed by the distance of many miles, whilst other authorities show that it always has been in the Fawley Hundred. The manor was given to Winchester Cathedral in the tenth century, and the Dean and Chapter were till lately the lords. The parish of Hinton Ampner has an area of 2849 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Bishopstoke in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. It was assessed in the time of King Edward as now at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 6 villeins and 5 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 6 servants, a mill worth 10s., a church, 74 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £6, and now £8.

The parish of Bishopstoke has an area of 8860 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Twyford in demesne, and he always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 20 hides, and now at 15 hides. Here are 25 ploughlands, 4 in demesne, and 29 villeins and 20 borderers with 21 ploughlands; also a church which pays 5s., 4 mills worth £4, 10 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 15 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £20, and now £32.

In the said Twyford the Bishop has a manor, which Eddid, wife of Oswold, held of the bishop. Wilfric held it in the time of King Edward, but it always belonged to the bishopric. It was then assessed at 10 hides, and now at 5 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 17 villeins and 20 borderers, with 7 ploughlands; also 3 servants, and 2 mills which pay £4 15s.; also 32 acres of meadow, and herbage worth 12s. 6d. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £12, and now £15.

The parish of Twyford has an area of 4219 acres. The second notice probably relates to Owslebury, till lately a chapelry to Twyford, and forming a portion of the manor, and which it is reasonable to suppose derived its name from the above mentioned Oswold.

FALEMERE HUNDRED,

Included in the present Fawley and Buddlesgate Hundreds.

Ciltecombe — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Chilcombe. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 68 ploughlands, 12 in demesne; and 80 villeins and 115 borderers with 57 ploughlands; also 9 churches, 20 servants, 4 mills worth £4, 40 acres of meadow, herbage which pays 23s. 5d., and woods for the pannage of 30 hogs.

Of this manor William holds land enough for 3 ploughs, and Manno held it; Cheping enough for 1 plough, and he held it before; Walter holds land enough for 1 plough, which was held by Ælfer; Hugh, the sexton, holds enough for 2 ploughs, held by Girand. Turstin Rufus holds enough for 1 plough, which was held by Ædmer; Osborn holds enough for 1 plough, which was held by Godwin; and Turstin the younger holds 30 acres, which were held by Ælfec. Those who held these lands in the time of King Edward could not remove to another lord. The present tenants have 7 ploughlands in demesne, and there are 7 villeins and 30 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 11 servants and 4 acres of meadow. The whole manor was worth, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, £73 10s. What the monks hold is of the value of £80, and what is held by others, £24. There were 6 hides adjoining to this manor in the time of King Edward, which Ralph de Mortimer now holds; but he owes no service to the church.

This manor, which has long been known as the manor of Barton and Buddlesgate, was till lately the property of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester Cathedral, and extends over the parishes of Chilcomb, Winnal, Morestead, St. Faith, Compton, Week, Littleton, and Sparsholt, which have an area of 13,639 acres. Of these eight parishes, five are at a distance from any stream, which will account for the small number of mills; whilst, in addition to the parish churches of the places above-mentioned, there were formerly other churches standing within the manor. The manor of Chilcomb was given to Winchester Cathedral by King Æthelstan, the first Christian king of the West Saxons, before the middle of the seventh century.

FERNHAM HUNDRED.

The present Parish and Hundred of Fareham.

Fernham — page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Fareham in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 20 hides, but there are now 30 hides. King Edward so granted it because being on the coast it was exposed to the incursions of the northern pirates. Here are 20 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 30 villeins and 16 borderers with 14 ploughlands; also a church, 6 servants, 2 mills which pay 25s., 25 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 10 hogs, and herbage worth 2s. 6d. Its value in the time of King Edward was £18, afterwards £10, and now £16; it is let for £20, but cannot bear so high a rent.

Of this manor Ralph holds $7\frac{1}{2}$ hides of the villeins' land; Goisfrid holds 4 hides, which Hercus held before, and William holds 1 hide, which Godwin held. These hides were assessed with the others, and those who held them of the Bishop could not quit them. Here are now 4 ploughlands in demesne; and 24 villeins and 10 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 4 servants, 3 mills worth 16s., 16 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. The value is worth £7.

The parish of Fareham has an area of 6700 acres.

FORDINGEBRIGE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Fordingbridge Hundred.

COLA, THE HUNTSMAN, holds Ellingham of the King, and it was held by Bolle allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at $5\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 8 villeins, 7 borderers, and 5 servants, with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; also a mill worth 7s. 6d., 103 acres of meadow, and woods for 40 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £7, and now 70s. One hide of this manor is in the King's forest, and woods of the same quantity have pannage for 20 hogs. The whole is worth 70s.

The parish of Ellingham has an area of 2545 acres.

THE KING holds Bedcot, in the forest, and it was held by Doda allodially of King Edward, and was then assessed at half a hide. Here is 1 ploughland which is now in the forest, except $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, which are held by Picot. It was worth 20s., and afterwards 15s.

EARL HUGO holds Bickton of the King; and Hugh Maci holds it under him, and Chetel held it of King Edward allodially. It was then assessed at 1 hide half a yardland, and now at 2 hides half a yardland. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 10 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 4 servants, a mill which pays 7s. 6d., 30 acres of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. The pasture and some of the wood is in the King's forest. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 100s., and now 60s.

Bickton is a tything in the parish of Fordingbridge.

Borgate — pages 5 and 23.

THE KING holds 1 yardland in Burgate, and King Edward held it. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 7 villeins, 18 borderers, and 8 freemen, with 7 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 10s., and furnishes 1000 eels, and 80 acres of meadow. The woods of this manor are in the King's forest, and the pasture was to furnish 40 hogs, and pay 10s.,

Picot holds 1 yardland of the King in Burgate, and Uluric and Golleve held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a ploughland in demesne, with 2 borderers; a mill worth 8s. 8d., 7 acres of meadow, and woods without pannage. Its value was in the time of King Edward 10s., afterwards 5s., and now 12s.

Burgate is the name of three tythings (North, Middle, and South,) all in the parish of Fordingbridge.

THE KING holds Breamore, which belongs to the manor of Rockborne, and was held by King Edward. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 4 villeins and 8 borderers, with 4 ploughlands; also 82 acres of meadow. Of this manor, $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides and woods for 50 hogs are in the forest, and they paid 51s. 8d.

One hide in the Isle of Wight belongs to this manor, and was held by Gherui, from whom the King received £9, and a priest 20s. Half a hide of this manor, held by Ulmar, is in the King's forest. There is forest land in Breamore, Rockborne, Broughton, and Burgate, which together was worth £13 16s.; and that part which is in the Island, pays a rent of £9, and the priest 20s.

The parish of Breamore has an area of 2641 acres.

THE KING holds Canterton in his own forest, and Chenna held it of King Edward; and it remains in the same condition. It was then assessed at half a yardland, but now at one fourth of a yardland, the other fourth being in the King's forest. Half a ploughland is in demesne, with 4 borderers. The woods and meadows are now in the forest. It was worth in the time of King Edward 20s. Chenna's share is worth 4s., and the King's 16s.

Canterton is a tything in the parish of Minstead.

Cerdeforde and Cerdifort — pages 13, 15, 16, and 23.

HUGH DE PORT holds Charford, and William holds it under him, and 2 freemen held it allodially as 2 manors, of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 6 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 20 borderers and 4 servants, with 1 ploughland, and 91 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and now £4, and when it came into possession, 100s.

The same HUGH holds Charford, and William holds it under him, and two freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 20 borderers and 4 servants with 1 ploughland, and 91 acres of meadow, also woods for 2 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards and now, £4.

EDWARD OF SALISBURY holds Charford, and Rannulf holds it under him, and Alnod held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; also 9 borderers, 4 servants, a mill which pays 15s., and 1250 eels, and 50 acres of meadow. Ingulf holds 1 hide of this manor, and here he has 1 ploughland, with 2 borderers. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and is 100s., and when it came into possession 60s.

ALWI, THE SON OF TORBER, holds Charford of the King, and Ulviet held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 14 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a mill which pays 30d., 30 acres of meadow, and woods for 6 hogs. Its value was 30s., and now 20s.

The parish of North Charford has an area of 570 acres, and South Charford of 833 acres. The two first of these notices refer to the same property.

Clatinges — pages 13 and 15.

HUGH DE PORT holds in Clatinges $1\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands, and William holds it under him, and two freemen held it of Alwin, but not allodially. Here are 2 borderers, 6 acres of meadow, and a wood which is unproductive. It was worth 10s., and now 8s.

WILLIAM holds of Hugh de Port $1\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands in Clatinges, and two freemen held it, but not allodially, of Alwin. Here are 2 borderers and 6 acres of meadow. It was worth 10s., and now 8s.

In this manor, and in the same hundred, Picot holds $2\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands of the King, and Phitelet held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ yardlands. Here is half a ploughland in demesne, with 1 villein, 2 borderers, and 10 acres of meadow. William de Chernet claims this land, and says that it belongs to the manor of Charford, Hugh de Port's fief, which he inherited from his predecessor; to prove which claim, he adduces the testimony of the better and more ancient tenants in the whole county, and of the hundred; and Picot, on the contrary, brings his witnesses from among the villeins, and low people, and the bailiffs, who are willing to prove his right, on oath, or by the judgment of God. They say that he, by whom this land was held, was a freeman, and might remove without losing possession, but the witnesses of William refuse to admit any law, except that of King Edward, until it be determined by the King in what manner the trial shall proceed. It was worth 15s., afterwards 8s., and now 10s.

Forde — page 16.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds Fordingbridge, and Robert holds it under him, and Alwi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, 3 yardlands, and now at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 13 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a church, 2 mills, which pay 14s. 2d., and 30 acres of meadow. Of this manor 3 yardlands are in the King's forest, as are the woods, worth 20s. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., afterwards 30s., and now 60s.

The parish of Fordingbridge, which comprises several Domesday manors, has an area of 6292 acres.

OSBERN, THE FALCONER, holds Gorely of the King, and Wistrinc held it allodially of the King. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland, and 7 acres of meadow. Its value was 20s., and now 10s. There is, in the forest, $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide worth 7s.

Gorely is the name of two hamlets. North Gorely in Fordingbridge parish, and South Gorely in Ibsley parish.

THE KING holds Ivare in the forest, and two freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 yardland, but now at nothing. It was worth 10s.

ALWI, THE SON OF TORBER, holds Midgham, and it was held by Ulviet allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1½ hides, and now at nothing. Here are 1½ ploughlands, and 8 borderers with ½ a ploughland. It is worth 13s.

EDDEVA holds Midgham of the King, and two freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1½ hides. Here is 1 ploughland, with 4 borderers. Its value was 20s., and now 13s. Picot holds it of Eddeva.

Midgham is a tything in the parish of Fordingbridge.

Otoiche — page 19.

WALERAN, the Huntsman, holds 1½ yardlands in Outwich, and Gozelin holds it of him. Agemund held it allodially of King Edward; and it belonged to Welle, as say the hundred and shire. Here is half a ploughland in demesne, with 1 villein and 1 borderer; also 3 acres of meadow, and a small wood. It was worth 10s., and now 5s.

Outwich is a hamlet in the parish of Breamore.

Rocheborne — pages 5 and 23.

THE KING holds Rockbourn, in demesne, and it was held by King Edward, and was never assessed, or distributed into hides. In demesne there are 2 ploughlands, and 4 villeins and 20 borderers with 3 ploughlands. Here are 3 acres of meadow.

ALWI, SON OF TORBER, holds Rockbourn, and it was held by Ulviet as a manor allodially of King Edward, and was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland, and 3 borderers. It was worth 40s., and now 20s. The jury of the hundred affirm that 1 yardland of this hide claimed by Alwi, was freed and discharged of the geld in the time of King Edward, whose seal to that purpose Alwi has now to produce.

SAWIN holds half a hide of the King in Rockbourn, and he held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at ½ a hide, and now at nothing. Here is half a ploughland in demesne, with 2 borderers. Its value was 12s. 6d. The sheriff's servants affirm it belongs to the King's manor, but the jury of the hundred and of the county say that King Edward gave it to Sawin, who has that King's seal to produce in favour of his claim.

The parish of Rockbourn has an area of 3798 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Rockford, and Hugh of St. Quintin holds it under him, and Alsi the priest held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 7 villeins and 9 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 6 servants, and 50 acres of meadow. The woods are in the King's forest. Its value was 30s. The value of the whole, in the time of King Edward and afterwards was 60s., and now 30s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Rockshore, and Aldwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide, half a yardland. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 7 borderers and 2 servants, and a mill which pays 40d. It was worth in the time of King Edward and afterwards, 10s., and now 25s.

THE KING holds Selacham in his forest, and it was held by Alestan allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at half a hide, but now at nothing. Here is 1 ploughland, and when it was granted to Ralph de Rimesi, there were 3 villeins with 1 ploughland. It was worth 25s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Ibsley, and Ralph holds it under him; and Algar held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 4 hides, and now at 2 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 6 villeins and 10 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 3 servants, a mill which pays 10s. and 700 eels, 75 acres of meadow, and woods for 1 hog. Of this manor, 2 hides are in the forest. Its value was in the time of King Edward, £4, afterwards 40s., and now 60s. What is in the forest is worth 20s.

The parish of Ibsley has an area of 1748 acres.

In the same Hundred the King holds 1 yardland, which was held by Edric allodially of King Edward, and was assessed at 1 yardland, but is now assessed at nothing. Here is 1 ploughland. It is all in the forest, except 1½ acres of meadow, which are held by the son of Alric. It was worth 7s. 6d.

HOLESETE HUNDRED.

Which corresponds generally with the present Holdshott Hundred.

Bromeselle — pages 14 and 19.

HUGH DE PORT holds Bramshill, and 2 freemen held it as 2 manors, allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide and now at ½ a hide. Here are 2 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland; and the fourth part of a mill worth 10d. 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value was, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, 10s., and now 20s.

GILBERT DE BRETVILLE holds Bramshill, with the royal manor of Swallowfield in Berkshire, and Alwi and Elsi held them as 2 manors allodially of King Edward. They were then as now assessed at 2 hides, wanting 1 yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, and 4 villeins with 1 ploughland; also a mill worth 25d., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 40s., afterwards 20s. 5d., and now 25d. This manor of Bramshill, as the hundred affirm, never was dependent on the royal manor of Swallowfield.

The first of the above places appears in Domesday as if lying within the Boseberg Hundred, but we have no difficulty in identifying it with the tything of Little Bramshill; and the latter as the tything of Great Bramshill, both in the parish of Eversley.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WESTMINSTER, holds Eversley, and four freemen held it as 4 manors allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides and now at 4 hides. Here are ——— and 10 villeins and 4 borderers with 3 ploughlands, 2 mills worth 105d., a wood which pays 30s., a messuage in Winchester which pays 7d., and 12 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards £4 10s., and now £4.

The parish of Eversley has an area of 5224 acres.

ALBERIC, THE CHAMBERLAIN, holds Hartley [Westpall] of the King, and Aluric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1½ hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 4 villeins with 3 ploughlands; also 1 servant, a mill worth 3s., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was as now 40s., but pays 45s.

ALURIC, THE SON OF BRIXI, holds Hartley [Westpall], and Alric held it allodially of King Edward, and it was then assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 5 villeins, with 2 ploughlands; also 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. Its value was and is 15s. The present tenant says that he had this land of Earl William for 2 marks of gold, and that he did not possess it before.

Both of the above notices we think relate to the parish of Hartley Westpall, which has an area of 1400 acres, as the adjoining parish of Hartley Wintney is in the Odiham Hundred, and is a manor within the manor of Odiham.

ALSI, THE SON OF BRIXI, holds Mattingley of the King, and Alric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1½ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands; 8 villeins and 3 borderers with 3 ploughlands, a mill which pays 5s., and 4 acres of meadow. It was and is worth 30s.

ALSI, THE SON OF BRIXI, holds Minley, and Alwi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here is 1 ploughland and 5 villeins, with 2 ploughlands. It was and is worth 20s.

Minley is a tything and manor within the parish of Yately.

Stradfelle — pages 14, 17, 19, and 22.

HUGH DE PORT holds Stratfield, and Aluric holds it under him, and held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne; and 5 villeins and 9 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 4 servants, a forge which pays 2s. 2d., a mill for the use of the hall, 15 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. It was always worth 30s.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds a manor called Stratfield [Mortimer], which was held by Cheping of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 9 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 6 servants and 2 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was £12, afterwards £10, and now £6.

GILBERT DE BRETVILLE holds Stratfield with a royal manor, but the hundred affirm that the former was never dependent on the latter. Edward held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but now it is not assessed. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 2 villeins. Hugh holds it of Gislebert, and pays 15s.

HUGH, THE SON OF BALDRUS, holds Stratfield [Saye], and Bundi held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 15 hides, and now at 7½ hides. Here are 17 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 30 villeins and 10 borderers with 16 ploughlands; also a church, 14 servants, 2 mills worth 27s. 6d., 40 acres of meadow, woods for 100 hogs, and a house in Winchester. Its value was in the time of King Edward £15, afterwards £12, and now £15.

ALURIC holds 2 hides in Stratfield, and Godric and Siward held them as 2 manors allodially of King Edward, and Aluric has held them without warrant. Here are 3 villeins, with 1 ploughland; also 2 acres of meadow. The land is 3 ploughlands. In the time of King Edward it was, as now, assessed at 2 hides. It was then worth 15s., afterwards, and is now worth 13s. 4d.

The above notices refer to the present parishes of Stratfield Saye, Stratfield Turgis, and Stratfield Mortimer, which have in Hampshire an area of 5327 acres. Stratfield Saye and Stratfield Mortimer were known by those names as far back as the reign of Edward I. The first of them deriving its adjunct from the family de Saye, who then held the manor; and the second from its Domesday lord, whose descendants held it for many centuries. Stratfield Turgis, by far the smallest parish, was then probably a portion of Stratfield Saye, as it does not appear that it was either a parish, or had within its limits a chapel.

Silcestre — page 17.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Silchester, and Cheping held it allodially of Earl Harold. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 3 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands and 9 villeins, and 13 borderers, with 4 ploughlands; also 3 servants, 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 20 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 100s., afterwards, and now 60s.

WILLIAM DE OW holds Silchester, and Ralph Bloiet holds it under him, and Alestan held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 5 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 5 villeins and 5 borderers, with 3 ploughlands; also 4 servants, 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 60 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 100s., and now £6.

The parish of Silchester has an area of 1880 acres.

MANEBERG HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Mainsborough Hundred.

Candevre — pages 7 and 10.

RICHERIUS holds a manor called Candover [Chilton], of the Bishop of Winchester, and Godwin and Lewin held it as 2 manors of the bishopric 5 hides each. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 10 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, with 1 villein, and 10 borderers. Its value was in the time of King Edward £8, afterwards £6, and now £7.

The parish of Chilton Candover comprises an area of 1472 acres.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Candover. In the time of King Edward it belonged to the monastery, and was assessed at 20 hides, of which 11 are in demesne. Here are 9 or 18 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 13 villeins and 4 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 9 servants, and 10 acres of meadow. Of the land of this manor, Hugh de Port holds 2½ hides of the Abbot. One hide is demesne land, and in the time of King Edward, Airaf held it. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 servants and 1 acre of meadow. Of the land of the same manor Als, the son of Brixi, holds a manor called Woodmancote, of the abbey. It is demesne land. In the time of King Edward, it was as now assessed at 6 hides and 2½ yardlands. Here are 3 ploughlands in demesne, and 3 villeins with 2 ploughlands, and 1 acre of meadow. The value of the whole manor, in the time of King Edward, was £13, afterwards the same. The part which belongs to the abbot is now worth £8, but pays £10. Hugh's 20s., and Als's £7.

The 20 hides of this manor are assessed at 13 hides, 2½ yardlands.

The parish of Brown Candover, formerly known as Candover Abbas, has an area of 2088 acres, and the adjoining parish of Woodmancote an area of 1396 acres.

MANTESBERG HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Bountisborough Hundred.

Abedestune — page 8.

HUGH DE PORT holds Abbotston of the Bishop of Winchester, and it did and does belong to the bishopric. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 9 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 8 villeins and 6 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 5 servants, a mill which pays 15s., and 5 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 100s. Of this land Rainald holds 1½ hides, and has 1 ploughland, and 1 acre of meadow, worth 20s.

Abbotston continued in the possession of the descendants of Hugh de Port till the commencement of the present century.

Edintune and Ebintune — pages 7 and 11.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Ovington, and it was held by Archbishop Stigand. It was then assessed at 1½ hides, now at nothing. Here is half a ploughland, 2 borderers, half a mill worth 7s., and 7 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 25s., afterwards 19s., and now 20s.

THE ABBEY OF ST. MARY, WINCHESTER, holds Ovington, and it always belonged to the church, and Stigand the Archbishop held it. It was then assessed at 1½ hides, but now is not assessed, because it is for the support of the nuns. Here is half a ploughland, with 1 plough in demesne; and 3 servants, 1 borderer, half a mill which pays 7s., and 7 acres of meadow. Its value, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was as now 25s.

The parish of Ovington is now in the Fawley hundred, but adjoining the Bountisborough hundred, and has an area of 1270 acres.

Iceene — page 19.

HUGH, THE SON OF BALDRUS, holds Itchen [Abbas] of the King, and it was held by the Abbey of St. Mary's, Winchester, in the time of King Edward. It was then assessed at 12 hides, and now at 3½ hides. The land is 3 ploughlands in demesne, and there are 4 villeins and 9 borderers with 3 ploughlands. Here are 16 servants, a mill which pays 20s., and 24 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £15, afterwards £17, and now £10. The Abbess of St. Mary claims this manor, and the whole hundred, and the county jury, testify that it was abbatial land in the time of King Edward, and also of King William, and ought so to continue. King William restored it to the same church.

The parish of Itchen Abbas has an area of 2100 acres.

THE ABBEY OF ROMSEY holds Itchen [Stoke], and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 8 hides and now at 6 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 8 villeins and 8 borderers, with 7 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill and a half worth 22s. 6d., and 10 acres of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward, and afterwards was £7, and now £9.

The parish of Itchen Stoke, which includes the Domesday manor of Abbotston, has an area of 2850 acres.

Walde — page 7.

DURAND holds Wield of the Bishop, and two freemen held it of the see in the time of King Edward, but could not remove. It was then as now assessed at 10 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 5 in demesne, and 9 villeins and 6 borderers with 4 ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward £8, afterwards £6, and now £10. Of this manor 2 freemen hold 1 hide, and have 1 ploughland with 1 borderer, and it is worth 20s.

The parish of Wield has an area of 2087 acres.

MANEBRIGE HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Mansbridge Hundred.

Bedeslei — page 17.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Baddesley [North], and Cheping held it of the King. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, and 4 villeins and 7 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 7 servants, a church, woods for 10 hogs, and herbage worth 10s. Its value was, in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards 100s., and now 60s.

The parish of North Baddesley has an area of 2570 acres.

Botelie — page 17.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Botley, and Cheping held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, and 8 villeins and 4 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also a church, 4 servants, 2 mills worth 20s., and 12 acres of meadow. There is no wood. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards was and is 100s.

The parish of Botley has an area of 1887 acres.

HERBRAND holds Boyatt of the King, and Godric held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at ½ a hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 1 villein and 8 borderers with ½ a ploughland; also 2 servants, 2 mills worth 16s., 45 acres of meadow, and woods for 1 hog. Its value in the time of King Edward was £4, afterwards and is now 40s.

Boyatt is a tything within the parish of Otterbourn.

BERNARD PANCEVOLT holds Chilworth, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins with 1 ploughland; also a church, 4 servants, and 3 houses in Southampton which pay 18d. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards £8, and now only £4, because it has no right to the use of the woods belonging to it.

The parish of Chilworth has an area of 1400 acres.

Ellatune — page 19.

WILLIAM ALIS holds Allington, and Godman held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 11 villeins and 6 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also a church, 10 servants, 2 mills worth 20s., 67 acres of meadow, herbage producing 30d., and woods for 20 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £15, afterwards £7, and now £6 10s.

HENRY, THE TREASURER, holds Eastley, and Godwin held it of King Edward, and could remove. It was then assessed at 2 hides, but now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 4 villeins and 7 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 12 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward was as now 40s.

Eastley, with Barton Peverel, is a tything of the parish of South Stoneham. In the reign of Henry III. Andrew Peverel held the manor of Barton, on condition of furnishing and maintaining one armed horseman to the king's army for forty days.

Latelie — page 19.

RICHARD PUNGIANT holds Netley, and Alward held it of King Edward, and was permitted to remove. It was then assessed at 3 hides, but now at 1 hide. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 9 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a chapel, 2 servants, 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 40 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., afterwards 40s., and now 100s.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Millbrook, and it was always abbey land. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 5 hides. It was and is occupied by villeins, and there is no mansion-house. Here are 5 ploughlands occupied by 28 villeins, 14 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. In the time of King Edward and afterwards its value was 100s., and now the same.

The parish of Millbrook, which includes the Domesday manors of Shirley and Redbridge, has an area of 3646 acres.

RAINALD, THE SON OF CROCH, holds 1 hide of the King, in Woolston, and Tovi held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, and now at $\frac{1}{2}$ a yardland. Here are 3 villeins and 3 borderers with 1 ploughland. It was worth 10s., and now 5s.

Woolston is a tything in the parish of St. Mary extra.

Rodbrige — page 17.

HUGH DE PORT holds 1 hide in Redbridge, and Tovi held it of the King. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 4 villeins and 1 borderer with 1 ploughland, 2 mills which pay 50s., and 1 acre of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and afterwards 10s., and now 50s.

The manor of Redbridge, in the reign of Henry III., was held by Richard de Baudet, on condition of rendering annually at the Exchequer one hundred barbed arrows.

Sirelei — page 17.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds Shirley, and Cheping held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 8 ploughlands, and 4 villeins and 3 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also a church, 5 servants, and a mill which pays 30d., 12 acres of meadow, and woods for 8 hogs, 4 messuages in Southampton which pay 40d., and a fishery worth 6s. In the time of King Edward, and afterwards, its value was as now 100s.

Shirley, which is now a tything of the parish of Millbrook, was formerly a separate parish.

Stanham — pages 9 and 10.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Stoneham [South] for the clothing of his monks. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at 3 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 11 villeins and 9 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 1 servant, 20 acres of meadow, 2 fisheries worth 39d., and woods for 20 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £7, afterwards £4, and now £8. The church of this manor is held by Richerius, the clerk, with 2 other churches near Southampton which are dependent on it as the mother church; adjoining there is 1 hide of land, which he holds with all the tithes of the manor, and also of the King's land. The value of what he holds of the Bishop is 20s., and of the King the same.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Stoneham [North] and it was always abbey land. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 8 hides. Here are 11 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 28 villeins and 7 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also a church, 13 servants, 2 mills worth 30s., 224 acres of meadow, woods for 20 hogs, and pasture which pays 2s. Its value was in the time of King Edward £12, afterwards and now £10.

The present parish of South Stoneham has an area of 8877 acres, and comprises the Domesday manors of Eastley and Allington, in addition to that held by the monks of Winchester, and which we suppose to be Bitterne, of which the Bishop is the lord of the manor. In its entirety South Stoneham may be said to include the adjoining parishes of St. Mary, Southampton, and St. Mary extra, with an area of more than 12,000 acres. The church of the manor was probably St. Mary, Southampton, which has a valuable glebe attached to it, and the tithes of the entire parish. The parish of North Stoneham, formerly known as Stoneham Abbas, marking its connexion with the Abbey above-mentioned, has an area of 5000 acres.

MENE HUNDRED,

The present East Meon Hundred.

Menes — pages 4 and 7.

THE KING holds Meon [East], and Archbishop Stigand held it in the time of King Edward for the use of the monks of Winchester, and afterwards for his life. There were 72 hides, assessed at 35 hides 1 yardland. Here are 64 ploughlands, 8 in demesne, and 70 villeins and 32 borderers with 56 ploughlands; also 15 servants, 6 mills which pay 40s., 8 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 200 hogs, and herbage worth 7s. 6d. Its value was in the time of King Edward £60, afterwards £40, and now £60, but pays £100 in weight, but cannot bear so high a rent. Of the land of this manor Walkelin, the Bishop, holds 6 hides 1 yardland, with the church. The hides held by the Bishop were formerly assessed, but now only at 3 hides, 1 yardland.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds in Meon [East] 6 hides, 1 yardland, with the church. Here are 4 ploughlands, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne; and 11 villeins and 8 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill worth 30d., and 4 acres of meadow. The value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £4, and now 100s.

The manor of East Meon, which extends over the parishes of East Meon, Froxfield, and Steep, has an area of nearly 18,000 acres. It has belonged to the see of Winchester for more than eight centuries, but it was probably held for a short time after the degradation of Stigand, who held the sees of Canterbury and Winchester at one time.

Stoches — page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Stoke in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 7 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 8 borderers, with 1 ploughland; also 6 servants, and 4 acres of meadow.

Of the land of this manor Goisfrid holds 4 hides of the bishop, held before by the villeins. Here he has 1 ploughland, 2 borderers, 6 servants, and 4 acres of meadow. Malger holds a church of this manor, it is worth 15s. The value of the whole manor was in the time of King Edward £10, and afterwards £8. What the Bishop holds is worth £7, and what by Goisfrid £4.

There is no place of the name of Stoke in the East Meon Hundred, and we have no doubt the name was placed under it in Domesday by mistake, and the question now is, where can we find this Stoke? It appears that the parish of Stoke Charity, otherwise Old Stoke, in Buddlesgate, was formerly a demesne of the bishop, but passed into lay hands previous to the Reformation. The advowson of the Church was given to Corpus Christi College, Oxford, by Bishop Fox, its founder.

MENESTOCHES HUNDRED,

Which corresponds generally with the present Meonstoke Hundred.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Alverstoke for his monks, and it was always abbey land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 16 hides, but that King Edward reduced to 10 hides, and it is assessed at such. It was and is now held by villeins. Here are 48 villeins, with 15 ploughlands, and woods for 2 hogs; the land is 15 ploughlands. Its value was and is £6. One knight holds half a hide of the land of this manor assessed with the other hides, and Savin held it, but could not remove. Here is 1 ploughland with 2 borderers, and is worth 25s.

The parish of Alverstoke has an area of 5222 acres.

Hamledune and Ambledune — pages 13 and 16.

EDWARD holds 1 hide in Hamledon, and he held it of Earl Roger, and could not remove. It was not then, as now, part of Chalton, but was assessed as now at 1 hide. One ploughland is in demesne, with 2 borderers, also a wood for 6 hogs. It was and is worth 20s.

WILLIAM DE PERCI holds Hambledon, in right of his wife, and Alwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 6 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 servants, a mill worth 12d., and woods for 4 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward was and is £4, and when it came into possession £3.

The above can refer but to a very small portion of the parish of Hambledon, which has an area of more than 9000 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Exton for his monks, and the church always held it. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 12 hides, and now at 8 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 13 villeins and 24 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a church, 2 mills worth 20s., and 4 acres of meadow. Its value was, in the time of King Edward £16, afterwards £12, and now £20; but the rent is now £30, which it cannot bear. Of the land of this manor, Leving held and still holds 2 hides assessed with the others, and has 1 ploughland in demesne; also 3 villeins, 3 borderers, 3 servants, a mill worth 2s., and $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow. Its value is 40s.

The parish of Exton has an area of 2464 acres.

Hou — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Hoe [East], and Ulward held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 4 servants, 1 acre of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 40s., afterwards 30s., and now 60s., but is farmed at £14.

Lammere — page 10.

RUALD holds Lomer of the Abbey of St. Peter, Winchester, and Alward held it of the abbot. He bought it in the time of King Edward for his own life, and paid the abbot 6 sextaries of wine yearly. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 6 villeins and 3 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 3 acres of meadow, and 2 servants. Of this land, 1 homager of the abbot holds 1 yardland. The value of the whole in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was £6, and now 100s., and what the homager holds 20s.

Lomer, which is now the name of a farm in the parish of Corhampton, was formerly a separate parish, and in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas its church is returned at the annual value of £6. In the Inquisition 14th of Edward III., 1341, it is entered by the name of Lomer, and in a deed of 1726, Lomer is described as a manor partly in the parish of Corhampton, and partly in the parishes of Kilmiston and Warnford.

THE ABBESS OF WINCHESTER hold Lyss, and it was always abbey land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 16 villeins with $3\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, a mill worth 16d., $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow, and woods for 15 hogs. In the time of King Edward and afterwards, its value was 50s., and now the same, but pays £4.

The parish of Lyss comprises an area of 3679 acres.

Menes — page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Meon [West] in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 20 hides, and now at 12 hides. Here are 14 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 25 villeins and 17 borderers with 11 ploughlands; also a church, with 1 hide, 8 servants, 2 mills which pay 10s., 10 acres of meadow, woods for 40 hogs, and 8 messuages in Winchester which pay 6s. Its value was in the time of King Edward £20, afterwards £16, and now £30, and lets for £40, but cannot bear so high a rent. The church pays 50s.

The parish of West Meon comprises an area of 3780 acres. The manor was given to the church in the reign of Edward the Confessor, but has long been in lay hands.

Menestoch — pages 4 and 7.

THE KING holds Meonstoke, and it was held by King Edward. It was assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at nothing. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 3 villeins and 16 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants, 4 freemen, a mill worth 10s., 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs, and the herbage pays 10s.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Meonstoke, and always held it in demesne. It was assessed in the time of King Edward as now at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here he has $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland, 1 villein, and a mill. It was and is worth 25s. The Bishop receives 20s. from the church of Meonstoke.

The parish of Meonstoke has an area of 2060 acres.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Worthy, and it was always abbey land. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; 7 villeins and 9 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a church, 7 servants, a mill worth 25s., and 6 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was as now £8, and when it came into possession £6.

HUGH DE PORT holds Corhampton, and Alwin held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 2 villeins and 6 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants, a church, 2 mills which pay 22s., 1 acre of meadow, and a house in Winchester worth 5s. The value in the time of King Edward was as now £8, and when it came into possession 5s.

The parish of Corhampton comprises an area of 2410 acres.

Sudbertune — pages 4 and 20.

THE KING holds Soberton, and Leman held it of Earl Godwin, but it was taken from him by Harold when he was King, and made a royal manor, and so it remains; Leman could not remove, but it is said that he held some land in parcenary, in Finchdean Hundred. It was then assessed at 4 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 2 ploughlands, $\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne; and 6 villeins and 3 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 mills which pay 15s., and 1 acre of meadow. Its value was and is £3.

THE KING holds Soberton, and Godwin held it in parcenary, of King Edward, and could not remove. It was taken from him by Harold, and made into a royal manor, and so it continues. It was assessed at 3 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 2 ploughlands, $\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne; and 3 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland; also a mill worth 5s., and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was, and is 40s. The above manors pay 40s. in addition.

HERBERT, THE CHAMBERLAIN holds Soberton of the King, and it was held by Ulmod. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 3 hides, now at $2\frac{1}{2}$, the other $\frac{1}{2}$ being in Earl Roger's park. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; 2 villeins and 8 borderers, with $\frac{1}{2}$ a ploughland; a mill worth 10s., and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward, 60s., afterwards and now 40s.,—because of less extent than formerly.

HENRY THE TREASURER holds Soberton of the King, and Andrac held it of King Edward, and was allowed to remove. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at 1 hide. Earl Roger has 1 yardland in his park. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 5 borderers, with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants, and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 30s., afterwards 20s., and now 60s.

The parish of Soberton has an area of 5814 acres.

Warneford — pages 10 and 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Warnford of the Abbey of St. Peter, Winchester, and Alward and Retel held it of the abbot, and could not remove. It was then as now assessed at 8 hides. Here are 6 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 6 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 6 servants, a mill which pays 10s., and 8 acres of meadow. In the time of King Edward its value was and is £8, and when it came into possession £6.

HUGH DE PORT holds Warnford, and Uluric and Olward held it in parcenary of King Edward, and had 2 halls. It was then assessed at 4 hides, and now at 2 hides wanting a yardland. There are 3 hides and 4 acres of land in Hound, which belonged to Warnford, and were assessed in Mansbridge hundred. Within the whole are 7 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 31 villeins and 9 borderers with 6 ploughlands; also a church, 6 servants, 2 mills which pay 20s., and 20 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward was and is £14, and when it came into possession £8.

The parish of Warnford has an area of 3067 acres.

Wesberie — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Westbury, and Gozelin holds it under him, and Ulmod held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 5 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and is £4, and when it came into possession 40s.

Westbury is a tything partly in the parish of Westmeon and partly in that of East Meon.

MICELDEVRE HUNDRED.

The present Micheldever Hundred.

Micheldevre — page 10.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Micheldever in demesne. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 106 hides, and now at 83 hides $\frac{1}{2}$ a yardland. Here are 72 ploughlands, 9 in demesne, and 64 villeins and 28 borderers have 25 ploughlands; also 22 servants, a mill worth 30d., 30 acres of meadow, and woods for the pannage of 4 hogs.

Of the land of this manor Hugh de Port holds of the abbot 22½ hides 1 yardland, 3 hides 3 yardlands are of the demesne land, and four freemen held in the time of King Edward as 4 manors, Cranbourn, Drayton, Stratton, and East Popham; and could not remove without losing the land, according to the testimony of the jury of the hundred. Here are 6½ ploughlands in demesne; and 6 villeins and 12 borderers with 1½ ploughlands; also 7 servants and 24 acres of meadow.

Of the land of the same manor Herbert, the chamberlain, holds 7 hides, and three freemen held them in the time of King Edward. Odo, steward of the household, holds 5 hides of the demesne land; and Waleran, the huntsman, holds 4½ hides of the demesne land. There are in demesne 6 ploughlands, and 9 villeins and 9 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 2 servants and 5 acres of meadow.

ALSI holds of the land of this manor 6 hides, and his father held it; and Eldred, Odo's brother, holds 1½ hides, and his wife held it for her portion in the time of King Edward. Seward, the huntsman, held 2 hides, and he also held it in the time of King Edward. Here are 6½ ploughlands in demesne; and 5 villeins and 2 borderers with 1½ ploughlands; also 19 servants and 7 acres of meadow. The value of the whole manor was in the time of King Edward £60, and when it came into possession £40. The demesne of the abbot is now worth £57; that held by Hugh de Port £19; that of Herbert's 100s.; Odo's share 50s.; Waleran's 60s.; Alsi's 100s.; Eldred's 30s.; and Seward's 20s. In another place, Alsi holds 1 hide of the demesne land of this manor; and here are 4 villeins who pay 7s.

The parish of Micheldever has an area of 9340 acres. Cranbourn is the name of a farm in the parish of Wonston, and Drayton is a tything of the parish of Barton Stacey. The parish of East Stratton has an area of 2190 acres, and that of Popham of 1380 acres.

Ordei — page 10.

THE SAME ABBEY holds Worthy [Abbot's] in demesne, and it always belonged to it. Here are 7 hides, but not assessed. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 9 borderers without ploughlands; also 4 servants, a mill worth 20s., and 63 acres of meadow. The abbey has besides, 72 acres of meadow, which King Edward gave to the church, pastures called Moors, and 80 acres of meadow. All these were worth in the time of King Edward £6, afterwards 110s., and now £6 10s.

Abbot's Worthy is a tything in the parish of King's Worthy, and is still in the Micheldever Hundred, and has always been held conjointly with the larger manor of Micheldever.

NETEHAM HUNDRED,

Which includes the present Alton and Selbourn Hundreds.

EDWIN holds Oakhanger, and says that he bought it of King William, but the jury of the county know it not, Alwin held it of King Edward, and Richard now holds it of Edwin. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 1 hide, 1 yardland. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 8 villeins and 6 borderers, with 3 ploughlands; also 2 servants, and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 40s., and now 60s. Of this manor the King's bailiff claims half a hide as pasture for the King's oxen, but the jury of the county testify that his claims of pasture and pannage in the King's woods cannot be obtained, except through the sheriff.

Oakhanger is a tything within the parish of Selbourn.

Aultone — page 10.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Alton, and it was held by Queen Eddid, in the time of King Edward, there were 10 hides; and the villeins living on them assessed at 5 hides. The Abbot has now 5 hides in demesne, which were not assessed. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 11 borderers and 2 servants with 2 ploughlands; also half a mill worth 4s. 7d., 2 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward £6, afterwards and now £7.

Of this manor of Alton the King holds 5 hides in his own hands, which are occupied by Herding, but he is not assessed. The county jury affirm that he came in possession of this unjustly, in exchange of a house with the King; because the house was the King's own.

The parish of Alton has an area of 3896 acres.

Benedlei — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Bentley, which is episcopal land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 8 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; and 17 villeins and 5 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 4 servants, a mill worth 10s., 10 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Of this land Osbern holds of the Bishop 1 hide, 1 yardland, and William holds 1½ hides. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne; and 3 villeins with 1 ploughland, 1 acre of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. The Bishop's demesne was and is worth £12, that held by Osbern 50s., and that of William 20s.

This place appears in the Domesday as being in the Titchfield Hundred, but we have set it down for the parish of Bentley, near Alton, which is an episcopal liberty, whilst the Bishop of Winchester is, and has been for centuries, lord of the manor.

HUGH DE PORT holds 1 hide in Binsted, of the Bishop of Bayeux, and Boda held it as a manor allodially of King Edward. Half a hide of this is not assessed. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 4 borderers and ½ acre of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 10s., and now 20s.

The parish of Binsted has an area of 4883 acres.

WILLIAM MALDUITH holds Bradshott, Ulward and Aluric held it as 2 manors allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2½ hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; also 14 villeins, 4 borderers, 2 servants, a mill worth 40d., 3 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £3, afterwards and now £4.

Brenbresete — page 16.

EDWARD, of Salisbury, holds Bramshott of the King, and two freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 6 hides. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 10 villeins and 3 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 2 mills which pay 100d., 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. In the time of King Edward and afterwards, its value was as now 100s. William Malduith claims a hide of this land which was in Hartley, and is attested by the jury of the hundred and of the county.

The parish of Bramshott, which includes the Domesday manors of Bramshott, Chiltley, and Lidshott, comprises an area of 6676 acres.

NIGEL, THE PHYSICIAN, holds Brocheseve of the King, and Spirites held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 4 villeins and 3 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 3 servants, a mill worth 5s., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 50 hogs. It is worth 30s.

Celtone — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Chawton, and Oda held it allodially of King Edward. Here were 10 hides, but King Edward brought it under service and assessed it at 4 hides and 1 yardland. Here are 8 ploughlands, 4 in demesne, and 19 villeins, and 8 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 6 servants, 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 50 hogs. The value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £10, and now £12.

THE KING holds Chiltley, and Lanch held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at ½ a hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 4 villeins with 2 ploughlands; also woods for 30 hogs. Its value was and is 53s.

Ferendone — page 10.

OSBERN, BISHOP OF EXETER, holds Farringdon of the King, and Godwin the priest held it of King Edward. It belongs to Bosham church. It was then assessed at 10 hides and now at 5 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 11 villeins and 20 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 12 acres of meadow, and woods for 30 hogs. In the time of King Edward its value was £15, afterwards £12, and now £21.

The parish of Farringdon has an area of 2297 acres.

THE ABBEY OF ST. MARY, WINCHESTER, holds Froyle and always held it. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 10 hides, and now at 8 hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 15 villeins and 23 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also a church, 10 servants, 2 mills worth 22s. 6d., and 8 acres of meadow. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £12, and now £15, but pays £20.

The parish of Froyle has an area of 3618 acres.

THE KING holds Greatham, and Queen Eddid held it. It was then assessed at 1 hide, but is not now assessed. Here are 3 ploughlands, held by 7 villeins, and woods for 30 hogs. Its value in the time of King Edward and afterwards was as now 60s.

The parish of Greatham comprises an area of 2123 acres.

THE KING holds Holybourn, and Ulward held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 4 ploughlands in demesne, ½ a ploughland, and 6 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 1 servant, 5 acres of meadow, a wood for fences and for the pannage of 1 hog. The value in the time of King Edward was as now, 50s, and when it came into possession 40s.

The parish of Holybourn has an area of 1394 acres exclusive of Neatham.

Hallege — page 12.

EARL EUSTACE holds 5 hides in Headley, which were assessed in the time of King Edward at 3 hides. They were held by Earl Godwin, and are reckoned as part of Sutton [Bishop's].

The parish of Headley has an area of 6970 acres, and still continues a portion of the manor of Bishop's Sutton.

THE KING holds Ansley, and it was held by Queen Eddid. It was then assessed at 5 hides, but is not now assessed. Here are 3 ploughlands, and 8 villeins, with $2\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 50s., and now the same.

WILLIAM MALDUITH holds Hartley [Maudet.] and Guert held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 6 hides, and afterwards at 3 hides, but the jury of the county have not seen the writ with the King's seal affixed, and it is now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 8 villeins and 5 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 30 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £8, afterwards £3, and now £7.

The parish of Hartley Mauditt has an area of 1339 acres, and derives the appellation of Mauditt from its Domesday lord.

GOISFRID THE MARSHAL holds Empshott of the King, and Bundi and Saxi held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at half a hide. Here is 1 ploughland, and 4 villeins with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, a mill worth 50d., half an acre of meadow, and woods for 1 hog. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 20s., and now 25s.

HERBERT THE CHAMBERLAIN holds Larode of the King, and Brictric held it of King Edward. Here is 1 hide 1 yardland not assessed; also 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 borderers, 1 acre of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value was in the time of King Edward and is 20s., and when it came into possession 15s.

Larode is the name of a farm situated at West Tisted, consisting of 105 acres, and belonging to Magdalen College, Oxford. In the twelfth of Edward III. 1339, Roger de Tycheborne gave to the Prior and Convent of Selbourn one messuage and land at le Rode; and, upon the suppression of that Priory by Bishop Waynflete, 1485, all its possessions were transferred to his newly-founded college; and it is a curious circumstance that Magdalen College still holds "the copse for fences," about 6 acres, in hand.

WALTER, THE SON OF ROGER, holds Lesbourne, and Hunger holds it under him, and Alward held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 4 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 1 acre of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., afterwards 40s., and now 70s.

Lidessete — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Lidshott, and Alwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 5 villeins and 5 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 7s. 6d., 4 acres of meadow, and woods for 50 hogs. The value, in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was 60s., and now 100s.

THE KING holds Neatham in demesne, and it was held by King Edward. The number of hides is not known. Here are 52 ploughlands, 5 in demesne, and 54 villeins and 26 borderers with 47 ploughlands; 16 servants, $8\frac{1}{2}$ mills which pay £4 13s. 9d., a market worth £8, 15 acres of meadow, and woods for 150 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £76 16s. 8d., and now the same, but pays a rent of £118 12s. 9d. Of this manor 1 yardland was taken from and held by Lewin the forester, according to the testimony of the jury of the hundred.

Neatham, which is now a tything in the parish of Holybourn, has an area of 1170 acres, and can be but a small portion of the large manor which we conjecture included a part of the town and the parish of Alton.

TURSTIE, THE SON OF ROLF, holds Newton [Valence] of the King, and Brictric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 10 hides, and now at 5 hides. Here are 12 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 9 villeins and 5 borderers with 9 ploughlands; also a church, 6 servants, 2 mills worth 100d., 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 100 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £15, and now £12.

The parish of Newton Valence has an area of 2253 acres. It derives its adjunct from William de Valentin, half brother to Henry III., who held the manor in 1273.

Nortone — pages 15 and 17.

HUGH DE PORT holds Norton, and Robert holds it under him. Godwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2 hides. Here is 1 ploughland, which is in demesne, 2 villeins, 3 borderers, and $7\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 80s., afterwards 20s., and now 40s.

Norton is a tything within the parish of Selbourn.

THE KING holds Selbourne and Queen Eddid held it, but it was never assessed. Of this manor the King gave the church and 1 yardland to Radfred the priest. Its value was in the time of King Edward, and afterwards 12s. 6d., and now 8s. 4d.

The parish of Selborne, which comprises several Domesday manors, has an area of 8500 acres.

Wildchel — page 19.

WALTER THE SON OF OTHER holds Wildchel, and Ocsen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 6 borderers occupy the other half; also a church and $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres of meadow. It is worth 40s.

Willhall is the name of an estate in the parish of Alton.

GOISFRID THE MARSHAL holds Worldham, and Alwin held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 yardlands, and now at 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland, 2 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 12 borderers with $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands; a mill worth 6s. 8d., and 10 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 20s., and now 40s.

Godwin held Worldham in the time of King Edward, which was assessed at 1 hide and 1 yardland. He also held in the same hundred, Holybourn, which was assessed at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands. The price of both these manors was 40s.

WILLIAM DE BRAIOSE holds half a hide of the King, and Wenesi held it of King Edward on the same conditions as his predecessor, who was a goat-herd. It was not permitted to serve another lord. It is now assessed at $\frac{1}{2}$ a hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, held by Richard under William. It was worth in the time of King Edward 10s., afterwards and now 5s.

The parish of East Worldham has an area of 1687 acres, and West Worldham of 447 acres.

ODIHAM HUNDRED.

Forming a portion of the present Odiham Hundred.

Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 3 borderers, and 1 servant. Its value was in the time of King Edward as now 40s., and when it came into possession 20s.

The parish of Weston Patrick has an area of 1502 acres. Its adjunct is derived from Patricus de Cardusia, who held the manor in the reign of Edward I.

OVRETUNE HUNDRED,

The present Overton Hundred.

Esse—page 17.

EUDO, THE SON OF HUBERT, holds Ashe of the King, and Alwacre held it of Earl Harold. It was then assessed at 8 hides, and now at 3 hides. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 10 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a church, 10 servants, and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £7, afterwards and now £6 10s. This diminution in the value is occasioned by the deficiency of half a hide, which is in the possession of Hugh the sheriff.

The parish of Ashe has an area of 2100 acres.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER, holds Laverstoke, and Ulveva Beteslau held it of the abbey for life, and afterwards King William restored this manor to the same church, for the repose of his own soul and that of his wife. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 10 hides, and now at 6 hides, ½ yardland. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 7 villeins and 19 borderers with 5 ploughlands; also a church, 3 servants, 2 mills worth 14s., and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £7, afterwards and now £8.

The parish of Laverstoke has an area of 1530 acres.

Ovretune—page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Overton in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. In the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 41 hides. Here are 32 ploughlands, 5 in demesne, and 50 villeins and 27 borderers with 27 ploughlands; also 2 churches, 17 servants, 4 mills worth 62s. 6d., 4 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 30 hogs. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 2 borderers and 13 acres of meadow. All the woods are in the King's forest. Its value was in the time of King Edward 25s., afterwards and now 15s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Iford, and three freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 8 hides, and now at 3½ hides. Here are 4 ploughlands. This manor is held by William and Ralph and another, under Hugh, and they have 3 ploughlands in demesne, and 9 villeins and 6 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 4 servants, and 84 acres of meadow. Here was a wood for 90 hogs, but the King has now in his forest 1½ hides ½ a yardland of this manor, and half of the woods for 45 hogs. The value of the whole, was in the time of King Edward £10, and afterwards £8. What the tenants have is worth 100s., and the King's share the same.

Iford is a tything in the parish of Christchurch.

Riple — pages 15 and 23.

HUGH DE PORT holds Ripley of the Bishop of Bayeux, and Wislaw held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at ½ hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 3 borderers and 8 acres of meadow. The wood is in the King's forest. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 20s., and now 5s.

ULVIET, THE HUNTSMAN, holds Ripley, and he held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 2 hides. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 8 borderers and 4 servants with 2 ploughlands; also 40 acres of meadow. Of this manor 3 hides and all the woods are in the King's forest. It was worth in the time of King Edward £8, and now 5s., and that in the forest 100s.

Ripley is a tything of the parish of Sopley.

Sopelie — page

WILLIAM, THE SON OF STUR, holds Sopley, and Edric held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 7 hides, and now at 1 hide, ½ yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 3 villeins and 6 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 1 servant, a mill which pays 10s. and 875 eels, and 59 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards 40s., and now 50s., but pays 100s. The King has 4 hides, and all the woods as royal forest. The whole is worth 110s.

The parish of Sopley has an area of 4400 acres.

Weringetone — page 19.

WALERAN THE HUNTSMAN holds Winkton of the King, and Robert holds it under him, and Earl Tosti held it allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 7 hides, and now at 3 hides 1 yardland. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne, and 14 villeins and 7 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 2 mills for the use of the mansion, and which furnishes 450 eels, and 55 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards £7, and now £4 10s. The King holds 1 hide half a yardland and all the woods as royal forest. That valued is worth 110s., and of the remainder the King gave one yardland to a priest.

Winkton is a tything of the parish of Christchurch.

SUMBURNE HUNDRED,

BERNARD PANCEVOLT holds Autridge of the King, and Godwin held it of King Edward, and could remove. It was then assessed at one hide, and now at 1 yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 2 villeins with ½ a ploughland; also 7 acres of meadow, and woods for 2 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 60s., and now 30s.

WILLIAM THE ARCHER holds Compton, and five thanes held it of King Edward, and could remove. It was then assessed at 4½ hides, and now at 8 hides. Here are 7 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 13 villeins, and 19 borderers, with 7 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 20s., and 8 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £4, and now £7.

Ældred, Ode's brother, claims 1 yardland of this manor, and says that he held it during the life of King Edward, and was deprived of it after King William had crossed the sea, and that he proved his claim before the Queen. Hugh de Port, and the jury of the whole hundred, bear witness to this fact.

HERBERT, THE SON OF REMIGIUS, holds Farley [Chamberlain], and Alwin and Ulwin held it of the King. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 8 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 7 villeins and 4 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also 6 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 60s., and now 100s.

The same Herbert holds Farley, and Norman held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at half a hide, and now at nothing. Here are 3 borderers and 1 villein with half a ploughland. Its value was and is 20s. William de Ow claims this hide, and says that it belongs to his manor, but the jury of the hundred do not testify to it, but think it was taken from the King.

The parish of Farley Chamberlain, which has an area of 1716 acres, derives its adjunct from Goisfrid, the Chamberlain, who held the manor in the reign of Henry III.

Fugelerestune — page 10.

THE ABBEY OF ST. PETER, WINCHESTER holds Fullerton, and it was always abbey land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants, a mill worth 10s., and 4 acres of meadow. Its value was 50s., and now 60s.

Houstune — page 7.

THE BISHOP holds Houghton in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. Here are 21 hides, and in the time of King Edward it was as now assessed at 16 hides. Here are 28 ploughlands, 4 in demesne and 36 villeins and 46 borderers with 23 ploughlands; also 14 servants, 4 mills which pay 70s., a fishery worth 3d., 156 acres of meadow, woods for the pannage of 22 hogs, and 3 burgages who pay 30d.

Here are 2 churches, with 2 hides, wanting 1 yardland. Wibert the priest holds them, and has half a ploughland worth 60s. The value of the whole manor in the time of King Edward and afterwards was £24, and now the same, but pays £30.

Walter holds 1 hide of the Bishop, and has 1 ploughland with 1 borderer, worth 22s., and William Peverel holds 1 hide, but refuses to pay the geld, and has 1 ploughland, with 2 borderers and 4 acres of meadow. The value is 20s.

The parish of Houghton consists of two tythings—Houghton Drayton, in Buddlegate Hundred; and North Houghton, in King Sombourn Hundred; and we are of opinion that the Domesday manor Houstun relates principally to the former, and that of Holstune to the latter. But as the manor held by the Bishop was far more extensive than the present tything, we are led to the supposition that it included a portion of the parish of Michaelmarsh (also in the Buddlegate Hundred) from the fact of two churches mentioned as being held by the Bishop in demesne; whilst at present the churches of Houghton and Michaelmarsh are not only in the patronage of the see, but were till lately peculiar of the bishop; besides which we find that both manors were given to the Church of Winchester by the same person—namely, Queen Emma, the mother of Edward the Confessor—and both are returned together in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas: Houghton at the value of £19 6s. 3½d.; and Michaelmarsh at £37 18s. 10½d. The parish of Houghton has an area of 2642 acres, and that of Michaelmarsh 3988 acres.

Holstune — pages 13, 14, and 18.

TURALD holds Houghton [North] of Earl Roger, and Osmund held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2½ hides. Here are 1½ ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 4 borderers and 4 servants. Its value was and is 30s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Houghton, and Helderred holds it under him, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 2½ hides. The same Godwin holds Abedric as 1 manor, and was then as now assessed at 1½ hides. These 2 manors Hugh has one. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne, and 4 villeins with 3 ploughlands; also 23 servants and 18 acres of meadow. The whole in the time of King Edward and afterwards was of the value of £4, and now the same. The said Hugh claims for the use of this manor 3 messuages, the corner of a meadow, 1 yardland, and 5 acres, of Turstin, the Chamberlain. The whole hundred bear testimony to his claim, because his predecessors were seised, and held them to the day of King Edward's death.

TURSTIN THE CHAMBERLAIN holds Houghton, and Algar and Edward held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2½ hides, and now at 1 hide, 1 yardland, and 5 acres. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands in demesne, with 5 borderers, 1 freeman, and 2 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 40s., and now 60s.

ANSCHITIL, THE SON OF OSMUND, holds Houghton of the King, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at $\frac{1}{2}$ hide. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, with 4 borderers, and 10 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., afterwards 20s., and now 50s.

Lechtford and Lecford — pages 10 and 11.

THE ABBOT OF ST. PETER'S, WINCHESTER, holds Leckford [Abbots]. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 2 servants and $1\frac{1}{2}$ mills worth 22s. 6d., and 20 acres of meadow. In the time of King Edward and afterwards its value was £3, and now £4.

THE ABBESS OF ST. MARY'S, WINCHESTER, holds Leckford [Abbess]. It was always church land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 3 servants, and 15 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £3, afterwards and now £4.

The parish of Leckford has an area of 2254 acres, and comprises the above-mentioned manors—showing who were their Domesday proprietors.

THE ABBEY OF ROMSEY holds the whole village in which the church is situated. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 14 hides, and now at 10 hides. Here are 18 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 39 villeins and 53 borderers with 16 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 3 mills which pay 25s., 336 acres of meadow, and woods for 40 hogs. In Winchester 14 burgesses pay 25s. Of this land Hunger holds 1 hide 1 yardland, and 4 other freemen hold 2 hides wanting half a yardland. Here are 4 ploughlands in demesne, with 13 borderers and 2 servants. The whole in the time of King Edward and afterwards, was of the value of £19, and now £24, that held by the Abbess, and what is held by others, 40s. The same abbey holds, and formerly held, 1 hide, where are 4 villeins with 1 ploughland and a mill which pays 10s. It was and is worth 20s.

The parish of Romesy Infra has an area of 380 acres.

Sumburne — pages 5, 17, 18, and 19.

THE KING holds Sombourn [King's] in demesne, and it is a royal manor, not distributed into hides. Here are 10 ploughlands, 3 in demesne, and 25 villeins and 8 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 2 servants, 3 mills, which pay 15s., 7 freemen, 20 acres of meadow, pasture worth 17s., and herbage that pays 10d. The socage of 2 hundreds belongs to this manor. Here are 2 churches, to which half a hide (charity land) belongs. The steward claims for the use of this manor 1 yardland, and pasture which they call a Down, which pays 15s. Earl Moreton holds it, but the jury of the hundred assert, that it is part of the royal demesne, and was so in the time of King Edward, together with a meadow in the same manor.

WILLIAM DE OW holds Sombourn of the King; and Tol, the Deacon, held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 14 hides, and now at $7\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 12 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 9 villeins and 5 borderers with 8 ploughlands; also 13 servants, a mill which pays 10s., 68 acres of meadow, and 9 houses of burgesses which pay 12s. 2d. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £14, and now the same, but pays £16.

BERNARD PANCEVOLT holds Sombourn, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at 1 yardland. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne with 1 villein and 7 servants. Its value was in the time of King Edward 60s., and afterwards as now 70s.

WALERAN, THE HUNTSMAN, holds Sombourn, and Roger holds it under him, and Ednod held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here is 1 ploughland, and 2 villeins with half a ploughland; also 18 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 30s., and now 20s.

WALERAN holds 1 hide, in the said Sombourn, and Roger holds it under him, and Mainard held it of King Edward. Here are $1\frac{1}{2}$ ploughlands, with 3 borderers, and 6 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 30s., afterwards 20s., and now 10s.

The parish of King Sombourn has an area of 7425 acres; and the portion held by William de Ow still retains the name of Howe Park.

THE ABBEY OF ST. MARY, WINCHESTER, holds Stoke [Longstock], and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 3 hides, and now at half a hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 4 borderers, 1 servant, a mill which pays 20s., and 5 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 30s., afterwards and now 40s.

The parish of Longstock has an area of 2962 acres.

HUGH, THE SON OF OSMUND, holds Stockbridge of the King, and Edward held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, and now at nothing. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne with 2 servants. Its value was and is 20s.

This we take to be Stockbridge, an off-shoot of the royal manor of Sombourn, and which has an area of 1116 acres.

THE ABBEY OF ST. MARY, WINCHESTER, holds Timsbury, and always held it. It was in the time of King Edward as now assessed at 2 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 4 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 12s. 6d., and 50 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 50s., afterwards as now 60s.

The parish of Timsbury has an area of 1411 acres.

— pages 12, 17, 19, 20.

EARL MORETON holds 1 manor of the King, which 3 thanes, Lewin, Godric, and Saulf, held of King Edward. It was then assessed at 4 hides, but now at nothing. Here are 4 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 20 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 4 servants, a mill worth 15s., and 30 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards £11, and now £8, but pays £12.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds 1 manor, which was held by Cheping of King Edward. It was then assessed at 2 hides, and now at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 1 villein and 8 servants with 1 ploughland; also a mill which pays 7s. 6d., and 15 acres of meadow. Waleran holds 1 hide of this land under Ralph, and here he has 3 borderers. The value of the whole was in the time of King Edward £7, and afterwards £4. Ralph's share is worth £4, and Waleran's 20s., but pays 30s.

GILBERT DE BRETEVILLE holds 1 hide of the King, which was held by Alnod, of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, and 3 villeins and 6 borderers with 4 ploughlands; also a mill which pays 20s., 12 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards as now 60s. Hugh de Port claims this hide, and says that it belongs to his manors of Charford and Eschetune, and that his predecessors held it as such, and his claims are supported by the whole hundred.

WILLIAM THE SON OF STUR holds 1 hide, and Hugh de Port holds it under him, and Odo held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 4 villeins; also 10 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 20s., and now 25s.

ELDREDUS, Odo's brother, holds half a hide of the King, and he held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at $\frac{1}{4}$ a hide, and now at 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland $\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne, and 1 villein and 1 borderer with the other, and 2 acres of meadow. It was and is worth 6s.

ALMAR holds half a hide of the King, which was held by Alwi of King Edward. It was then assessed at half a hide, but now at 1 yardland. Here is 1 ploughland, with 3 borderers and 1 acre of meadow. It was and is worth 5s.

ULURIC, THE HUNTSMAN, holds a manor of the King, which was held by his father of King Edward. It was then assessed at $1\frac{1}{2}$ hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne; and 3 villeins and 2 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 12 acres of meadow. It was and is worth 20s.

Of the above properties (save one) we can offer but little information; but our impression is that they were situate principally in the parish of Romesy Extra, which comprises several tythings, and has an area of 7272 acres. In the one held by Ralph de Mortimer, and by Cheping, of King Edward, we recognise the ancient manor of Stanbridge, a residence of our Anglo-Saxon kings, and which obtained its name from its stone bridge across the Test. It is a tything of Romsey, and is now known as Stanbridge Earls: having gained its distinctive appellation from being held in demesne by the Mortimer family, subsequently Earls of March, from whom it passed into the Kerby and Gollop families, and it was purchased at the commencement of the last century by the Fifield family, from whom it has descended to its present proprietor Charles John Hall, Esq. It is probable that the adjoining Tything of Sparshott, the property of Lord Palmerston, was that portion of the manor held by Waleran, as we find that in the year 1272, the manor of Sparsholte belonged to Robert Walerand; and it should be remembered that in ancient times the spelling was from sound, and not from a recognised rule.

TICEFELLE HUNDRED.

Which corresponds with the present Titchfield Hundred.

Burnewic — page 8.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Brownwich of the King, in Fief, and Ansgotus holds it of the Bishop, but it is not episcopal land; and Edric held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, $1\frac{1}{2}$ in demesne, and 5 villeins and 11 borderers with 3 ploughlands; also 1 servant. It was and is worth £4.

Croftone — page 12.

EARL ALAN holds Crofton, and Ulward held it, and could remove without losing the land. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 7 hides, and now at 3 hides, wanting half a yardland. Here are 5 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 11 villeins, and 2 borderers, with 4½ ploughlands; also a church, 4 servants, a mill worth 12s. 6d., a fishery with 2 salterns producing 100d., 24 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £8, afterwards 100s., and now £4.

Crofton is a chapelry to the parish of Titchfield.

THE KING holds Pacombe, and Lang held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 13 hides, but now at 7 hides. Here are 12 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 4 servants, 21 villeins, and 12 borderers with 10 ploughlands; also 6 houses in Winchester, 1 acre of meadow, and woods for 4 hogs. Its value was and is £13, but pays £16. Roger Peyto is now in possession of it, and has a mill worth 20s. Here are 14 acres of meadow, and pasture worth 51d.

Pacombe is a hamlet in the parish of Titchfield.

Funtelei — pages 12, 16, and 21.

EARL ALAN holds Funtley, and Ulward held it of Earl Godwin, but could not remove. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, and 7 villeins and 2 servants with 2½ ploughlands; also a mill which pays 10s., and 3 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards 40s., and now 30s. Eldred and the jury of the hundred affirm that this manor does not belong to Crofton.

ROBERT THE SON OF GEROLD holds half a hide in Funtley, and Tovi held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at half a hide. Here is 1 ploughland, 3 borderers, 6 acres of meadow, and woods for 3 hogs. It was and is worth 20s.

RANNULF FLAMME holds Funtley, and Turi held it of Earl Godwin. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide, but there is 1 yardland more. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 4 villeins and 5 borderers with 2½ ploughlands; also a mill which pays 12s. 6d., 5 acres of meadow, and woods for 10 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards and is now £3.

Funtley is the name of two manors (Great and Little) in the parish of Titchfield.

Houch — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Hook, and Germanus holds it under him, and Norman held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 1½ ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 2 villeins and 3 borderers with 1 ploughland, and 1 acre of meadow; also woods which furnish 1 hog. It is worth 25s.

Mene — page 7.

THE BISHOP holds 1 hide in Meon, and was assessed at so much. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, with 2 villeins, also 2 acres of coppice for fences. It was and is worth 20s. Tovi had half of this hide through Earl William; and the other part he had of the King for money, and on the same conditions as Tovi held this land; the Bishop enjoys it as a gift of the King.

WILLIAM MALDUTH holds Rownor, and Coleman held it of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 2½ hides. Here are 4 ploughlands, 1½ in demesne, with 2 servants, and 1 acre of meadow, woods for 4 hogs, and 10 villeins and 2 borderers with 2½ ploughlands. Its value was in the time of King Edward 70s., afterwards 30s., and now 70s.

The parish of Rownor comprises an area of about 1200 acres.

Stubitone — page 14.

HUGH DE PORT holds Stubington, and Godwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 3 hides. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 5 villeins, and 4 borderers, with 2 ploughlands, and 2 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 50s., afterwards 60s. and now the same, but pays 110s.

HUGH DE PORT holds Sigeonsworth, and Herlebold holds it under him, and Ulwin held it of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, and 5 villeins and 2 borderers with 2 ploughlands; also 3 servants, a mill which pays 20s., 5 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. In the time of King Edward its value was and is 60s., and when it came into possession 30s.

Sigeonsworth is a manor in the parish of Titchfield.

THE KING holds Titchfield, a village, and belonging to Meonstoke, and King Edward held it. Here are 2 hides, but never assessed; also 15 ploughlands, but nothing in demesne, except two head of cattle; and 16 villeins, and 13 borderers, with 9 ploughlands. Here are 4 servants, a mill worth 20s., and a market and toll-place pay 40s.

The parish of Titchfield, which comprises several Domesday manors has an area of 17,600 acres.

HUGH DE PORT holds Wickham, and 4 brothers held it as 2 manors of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 12 hides. Hugh received it as 1 manor. Here are 7 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 15 villeins and 6 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also 5 servants, 2 mills which pay 20s., 8 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards £4, and now £7.

The parish of Wickham comprises an area of 2483 acres.

— pages 12, 16, and 21.

EARL ALAN holds a manor, which Angot, and Elmer his brother, held of King Edward. It was then assessed at 5 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, and 2 villeins and 4 borderers with 1 ploughland; also 3 servants, 2 acres of meadow, and woods for 5 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards and now 40s. These the Earl received as 1 manor.

RALPH DE MORTIMER holds 1 yardland, which was held by Cheping of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a yardland, occupied by 2 villeins, with ½ an acre of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward 5s., afterwards 8s., and now 7s.

ALURED THE PRIEST holds 1 hide, which was held by Uluret of the King; it is now a hamlet appertaining to Wolverton. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland, and 3 villeins with ½ ploughland; also woods for 5 hogs. It is worth 20s.

DURAND, THE BARBER, holds 1 hide of the King, which was held by Blackman of King Edward. It was then assessed at 1 hide, and now at 1 yardland. TRUHAM HUNDRED,

Included in the present New Forest Hundred.

Betramelei — page 26.

SAULF and ALURIC held 2 hides in Bertramsley assessed at such, but they are now in the forest, except 4 acres of meadow, which are held by Saulf. Here were 5 ploughlands, worth £3. Peret, the forester, holds half a yardland of the King.

Cocherlei — page 26.

ALURIC and AGEMUND held 3 yardlands in Cocherlei, but they are now in the forest. Here were 2 ploughlands worth £3.

Hincelvellei — page 26.

WISLAC held half a hide in Hinchesley as such, but it is now in the forest. Here were 2 ploughlands worth 20s.

Hinchesley is in Brockenhurst parish.

Pistelai — page 26.

ALURIC had half a hide in Pilley, and was assessed at such, but it is now in the forest, except 3 acres of meadow held by Aluric. Here were 2 ploughlands worth 15s.

Sanhest — page 26.

SAUL had half a hide in Sanhest, and was assessed at such, but it is now in the forest. Here were 2 ploughlands, worth 20s.

Truham — page 26.

HUNTA had 1 hide in Fritham, assessed at such, but it is now in the forest. Here were 3 ploughlands worth 30s.

ALURIC, THE LITTLE, had 1 hide and 2 yardlands in parcenary, assessed as such, but they are now in the forest. Here were 4 ploughlands worth £4.

SAWIN had 1 yardland, which was never assessed, and it is now in the forest, except 1 acre of meadow, which is held by Hugh de St. Quintin. It was worth 12d.

HUNTA and PAGEN held 2½ yardlands in parcenary, assessed at such, but they are now in the forest, except 1 acre of meadow, held by Aluric. Here were 2 ploughlands worth 20s.

WALTHAM HUNDRED,

Waltham — page 7.

THE BISHOP OF WINCHESTER holds Waltham in demesne, and it always belonged to the bishopric. In the time of King Edward it was assessed at 20 hides, although there be 30 hides in number. Here are 26 ploughlands, 6 in demesne, and 70 villeins and 15 borderers with 26 ploughlands; also 7 servants, 3 mills which pay 17s. 6d., 2½ acres of meadow, woods for 10 hogs, and a pound for cattle. In the time of King Edward its value was £31, afterwards £10 10s., and now £30. Of the land of this manor Robert holds 3 yardlands, (held by villeins in the time of King Edward) and has 1 ploughland, 1 borderer, and 1 servant, and it is worth 30s. Ralph a priest holds 2 churches of this manor, with 2½ hides, and has 2 ploughlands, and 2 villeins, and 9 borderers, and 7 servants, with 1 ploughland, and it is worth 100s. Of the land of these churches 1 man holds 1 hide of the land occupied by the villeins, and has 1 villein and 3 borderers with 9 oxen, and it is worth 30s.

This manor probably extended over the present parishes of Bishop's Waltham, Upham, Durley, and Bursledon, which together have an area of 13,800 acres.

WELFORD HUNDRED,

Which corresponds with the present Wherwell Hundred.

Warwelle, &c. — page 12.

THE ABBEY OF WHERWELL holds the whole village in which stands the church, and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 22 hides and now at 13 hides. Here are 14 ploughlands, 4 in demesne, and 5 villeins, 12 borderers, 25 freemen, and 10 servants with 10 ploughlands; also 3 mills which pay 27s. 6d., 65 acres of meadow, and woods for 25 hogs. Its value was in the time of King Edward and afterwards £10, and now £15.

The same abbey holds Tufton, and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 7 hides, and now at 9½ hides. Here are 2 ploughlands in demesne, and 9 villeins and 6 borderers with 1½ ploughlands, also 4 servants, 2 mills which pay 35s., 8 acres of meadow, and a copse for fence wood. Its value was and is £6.

The same abbey holds Goodworth [Clatford] and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 3 hides, and now at ½ a hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, with 6 borderers, 4 servants, 1 ploughland, and 10 acres of meadow. Its value was and is 40s.

The same abbey holds Anne [Little], and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 5 hides, and now at 3½ yardlands. Here are 3 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 10 borderers and 4 servants with ½ ploughland; also 2 mills which pay 30s., 2 acres of meadow, and a copse for fences. Its value was and is 100s.

The same Abbey holds Middleton, and always held it. It was assessed in the time of King Edward at 20 hides, and now at 10 hides. Here are 9 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 14 villeins and 10 borderers with 7 ploughlands; also 5 servants, 2 mills which pay 40s., a fishery for the use of the hall, and 9 acres of meadow. Its value was and is £12.

The same Abbey holds Bullington, and always held it for 10 hides, but it was never assessed. Here are 6 ploughlands, 2 in demesne; also 8 villeins, 4 borderers, 3 servants, and a mill which pays 15s. Its value was and is £7.

The same Abbey holds, in the City of Winchester, 31 messuages, which are free from all customary charges, except the King's geld, of which the abbess's own house is free. The value in the time of King Edward was 50s., and now 30s. In Winchester the Abbey has also a mill which pays 48s.

The parish of Wherwell, which includes the Domesday manor of Fullerton, in Somborn hundred, has an area of 3546 acres. The parish of Tufton has an area of 1552 acres. Goodworth is a tything of the parish of Goodworth Clatford, which has an area of 3390 acres. Little Anne is a tything of the parish of Abbot's Anne. Middleton is a tything and manor in the parish of Longparish, formerly known as Middleton. The parish of Bullington has an area of 1760 acres.

Hantune — page 27.

IN THE BOROUGH OF SOUTHAMPTON, the King has 70 men in demesne, who pay a land-tax of £7, and paid the same in the time of King Edward; 27 of whom pay 8d. each, 2 pay 12d., and the remaining 50, 6d. each.

The land which they held in the Borough itself was made free of taxes in the time of King Edward by the King.

Odo of Winchester; Anschtill, the priest; Chetel, Fulghel, and Tostill, sons of Elric, had 16 acres of meadow; Gerin, 18 acres; and Cheping 3 houses free from tax, which are now held by Ralph de Mortimer. Godwin has also 3 houses, which are held by Bernard Pancevolt.

After King William came to England, 65 Frenchmen, and 31 Englishmen were provided with houses in Southampton. These altogether paid £4 0s. 6d., for all accustomed dues.

The undermentioned, have houses in Southampton free of tax, by a grant of King William, viz: the Bishop, 1; the Abbey of Cormelies, 1; the Abbey de Lire, 1; the Earl of York, 2; Ralph de Mortimer, 2; Gilbert de Breteville, 2; William, the son of Stur, 2; Ralph de Toden, 1; Durand de Gloucester, 2; Hugh de Port, 1; Hugh de Grentemaisnil, 2; Earl Moriton, 5; Aiulf, the chamberlain, 5; Humphry, his brother, 1; Osburn Gifard, 1; Nigel, the physician, 4; Richerius de Andeli, 4; Richard Pugnant, 1; Stephen Stirman, 2; Turstin the chamberlain, 2; Turstin, the engineer, 2; Auschtill, the son of Osmund, 3; and Rainald Crock, 1.

The Abbess of Wherwell has a fishery and a small spot of ground which formerly paid 100d., but now 10s.

The Richerius de Andeli above mentioned appears to have been the same person who held several properties under the Bishop of Winchester: namely, Bransbury, Chilton Candover, Norman Court, two hides in Hurstbourn Priors, and the Church of South Stoneham, with two other churches near Southampton. His descendants held Chilton Candover and Wyke, a manor within the manor of Hurstbourn Priors, and written in ancient documents as Daundeless Wyke, for several centuries. In 1338, Robert Daundely was Sheriff of the County, and in the same year the custody of the king's Castle of Winchester was committed to him.

THE ISLE OF WIGHT.

WE are at a loss as to the Divisions of the Isle of Wight, in respect to its hundreds, in the reign of William the Conqueror. The Domesday Book gives the names of three hundreds, Bonecomb, Calburn, and Hemswell, which apparently constitute the present West Medina Liberty; but the names of the hundreds in which the manors of the East Medina Liberty were situated are not given. Of the thirty parishes of the Island the names of nine of them are not given in the Survey of which Carisbrook, with Northerwood, formerly united to it, has an area of 12,500 acres, and comprise the Domesday manors of Alvington, Bonecomb, Pann, Roseborough, and a portion of Chillerton; Godshill with an area of 6535 acres, those of Apelford, Chicerton, Losland, Roade, Sandford, Scottisbrook, Stenbury, and Wick; Brixton with an area of 3215 acres, those of Chilton, Limerston, and Shest; and Whitwell with an area of 1963 acres, those of Whitcombe and Wolberton.

Abaginge — page 29.

ALSI holds Abaginge of the King, and he held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 yardland. Here is half a ploughland, and half an acre of meadow. Its value was 5s., and now 3s.

THE KING holds Adgestone in demesne, and three freemen held it allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 3 ploughlands, and 11 villeins with 4 ploughlands. Its value was and is 40s., but it pays 40s. in pure silver. The King has a parcel of land in the island which employs 6 ploughs.

THE KING holds Arretton in demesne, and King Edward held it. Here are 4 hides, and the land is 5 ploughlands, 3 in demesne; and 10 villeins and 12 borderers with 10 ploughlands; also 7 servants, and a mill worth 15s. The Abbey de Lire holds the church of the manor, with 1 yardland and 1 acre of meadow, and the tythe of the whole manor, and it is of the value of 20s. In the time of King Edward it was worth £10, afterwards and now £8, but pays £12 in silver, 20d. to the ora.

The parish of Arretton has an area of 8833 acres, and comprises the ancient manors of Arretton, Briddlesford, Hale, Haseley, Horringsfort, Merston, Messley, Parriton, Standen, and Whitfield.

Affetune — page 27.

THE KING holds Afton in demesne, and it was held by Earl Tosti. It was then assessed at 4 hides, and now at 3 hides, wanting 1 yardland. Here are 8 ploughlands, 2 in demesne, and 14 villeins, and 8 borderers, with 6 ploughlands; also 12 servants, and 6 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £10, afterwards and is now £8, but it pays £10.

WILLIAM, THE SON OF STUR, holds Whitfield, and Rainald holds it under him, and it was held by Chetel allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here is 1 ploughland in demesne, and 1 villein, 3 borderers, and 1 servant with half a ploughland; also a saltern which pays 14s. 8d., and 1 acre of meadow. It is worth 20s.

The same William holds another Whitfield, which was held by Godric allodially of King Edward. It was then assessed at 3 hides, and now at 1 hide. Here are 6 ploughlands, 4 in demesne, and 4 villeins with 3 ploughlands; also 3 mills which pay 11s., and 8 acres of meadow. Its value was in the time of King Edward £4, afterwards £3, and now £7.

WILLIAM, THE SON OF AZOR, holds Winston, and William and Richard hold it under him, and it was held by Elmer allodially of King Edward. It was then as now assessed at 1 hide. Here are 2 ploughlands, 1 in demesne, with 3 villeins. Its value was 30s., and now 20s.

THE ABBEY OF ST. MARY'S OF LYRA (in Normandy) has 6 churches (Carisbrook, Arreton, Freshwater, Godshill, Whippingham, and Newchurch), in the Isle of Wight, to which belong 2 hides, and 2½ yardlands, and in several manors, 5 villiens have 1½ hides, wanting a fourth of a yardland, also the tythes of all the King's rents. The whole of their claims is valued at £20, and they pay tax for 2 hides, and ¼ a yardland.

At page 31 we made mention that the present Lord Lieutenant of the county, the Marquis of Winchester, is the proprietor of one of the many manors in Hampshire, held by his ancestor Hugh de Port in the reign of the Conqueror. Another of the descendants of Hugh de Port is the present High Sheriff, Sir Henry Bouverie Paulet St. John Mildmay, who derives the name of St. John from William de Port, the great grandson of the Domesday lord, who assumed the name of St. John in the reign of Henry II. Another descendant of Hugh de Port is Lord Bolton, the proprietor of the principal manor of Basing, and several other manors which has never been severed from it, and which for eight centuries have continued in the same family.

The manors of Minley and Mattingley, which were held in the reign of the Conqueror by Alsi, the son of Brixi, though at the distance of some miles from each other, were held conjointly till 1740, a period of 654 years.

GENERAL INDEX OF MANORS

Mentioned in THE DOMESDAY BOOK, with figures referring to their entries, both in the Latin Extension and English Translation.
